INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT

For the Attraction of New Residential Development To The Downtown Area; for the Creation of a Comprehensive Downtown Parking Strategy; and for other Activities of the Downtown Improvement Board that offer Mutual Benefit to the Community Redevelopment Agency of the City of Pensacola and to the Citizens of Pensacola:

This AGREEMENT, made and entered into this 1st day of October 2005, by and between the Community Redevelopment Agency of the City of Pensacola, a public body corporate and politic, hereinafter referred to as the "CRA", and the Pensacola Downtown Improvement Board, a public body corporate, hereinafter referred to as the "DIB".

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, cities across the United States are facing long-term challenges related to declining urban residential populations inclusive of: a.) a decline in the availability of housing generally affordable to low and moderate income households, b.) the lack of activity outside of daytime/weekday hours in central urban areas that, among other problems, hurts regional economic development efforts, c.) the nearly exclusive reliance on sprawling suburban development in outlying areas that creates high infrastructure costs and erodes regional quality of life, d.) areas that have not seen significant private sector investment leading to declining local tax base that result in a disproportionate tax burden on other areas of the community, and e.) a declining customer base for retail activity; and

WHEREAS, the CRA's focus on increasing the residential population of the CRA supports ongoing master planning efforts within the CRA, including the Community Redevelopment Plan as amended in 1989, the Pensacola Historic District Master Plan and the Belmont-DeVilliers Neighborhood Land-Use Plan and it follows on the research data and criteria for success identified in the Zimmerman Volk Associates Residential Market Potential Study; and

WHEREAS, increasing residential offerings and occupancy in the downtown area is a top priority for the DIB and as such the DIB has employed staff with significant experience in successfully attracting residential investors and developers to downtown areas; and

WHEREAS, the CRA and the DIB wish to cooperate in the development and implementation of a comprehensive and assertive downtown housing strategy intended to highlight the residential development possibilities that exist in the downtown area and to attract the investment of new private capital for such development opportunities during the next twelve months and beyond; and

WHEREAS, the lack of a downtown area parking strategy tends to hinder both residential and commercial redevelopment due to inconsistent and unpredictable availability of parking resources to both property and business owners, employees and patrons; and

WHEREAS, the study and creation of a Downtown Parking Strategy will potentially generate revenues that can be used for increasing the availability and efficiency of public parking amenities; and

WHEREAS, the stated long-term goals of the CRA and DIB are generally overlapping and there is therefore a mutual benefit to be attained through cooperation of the two bodies, including sharing of resources and expertise;

NOW, THEREFORE AND IN CONSIDERATION of the mutual covenants herein set forth, the CRA and the DIB agree as follows:

1. The CRA will annually contribute to the DIB funds in the same amount as those funds paid into the Redevelopment Trust Fund by the DIB in that year. Those funds will generally be dedicated to the following uses until such time that the CRA and DIB mutually agree otherwise:
 - a. Up to $100,000.00 annually for development and implementation of a downtown housing strategy that is intended to raise the profile of the residential development opportunities in downtown Pensacola and the reality of such new projects. Particular effort shall be extended toward expanding the availability of housing affordable to moderate income households. Income of up to 150% of median family income shall be used to determine affordability.
 - b. Up to $100,000.00 annually for the study and creation of a comprehensive downtown parking strategy that will generate increased efficiency and availability of public parking.
 - c. Any remaining funds contributed by CRA to the DIB beyond the items listed in subsections (a) and (b) above may be used for any and all other proper functions of the DIB, provided that such functions are reasonably consistent and compatible with the long term goals and objectives of the CRA as outlined in the Community Redevelopment Plan as amended in 1989, as the same may be later amended from time to time throughout the term hereof. For monitoring purposes, the DIB shall submit to the CRA, at least as often as annually during the term hereof, a written report of its activities hereunder for the period since the last most recent such report, the expenditure of funds received by the DIB hereunder for such period, and a statement of its intended expenditures of funds for future periods each having a duration of at least six months.
2. CRA staff and DIB staff will work closely in the development and implementation of said strategies.

3. By July 1 of every year the DIB shall create or update a plan of work that includes objectives for the next fiscal year. Representatives of the CRA and representatives of the DIB shall meet with each other to discuss said plan of work and identify the data or other measuring standards or criteria by which progress toward achieving such objectives shall be assessed. The DIB also agrees to provide briefs to the CRA semi-annually to keep the officials updated on the accomplishments and activities of the DIB.
4. This Agreement will be in effect for 15 years and may be terminated by the CRA or the DIB if either party fails to perform its duties under this Agreement after thirty days written notice of such intention. However, if at the time of termination, unsatisfied and previously agreed upon orders or commitments for third party services or goods needed to implement the actions of DIB hereunder, such financial commitments must be satisfied before termination can occur. The parties' respective obligations hereunder shall be suspended but the term hereof shall continue to run during any period of time during the term that the DIB fails to contribute funds to the Redevelopment Trust Fund.
5. This Agreement embodies the entire agreement and understanding between the parties hereto and there are no other agreements or understandings, oral or written, with reference to the subject matter hereof that are not merged herein and superseded hereby.
6. This agreement may not be assigned or transferred by any party in whole or in part without consent of both parties.
7. This agreement shall be governed by and constructed in accordance with the laws of the State of Florida.
8. This agreement shall become effective when filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Escambia County, Florida. The CRA shall be responsible for such filing.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have caused these presents to be executed as of the date and year first above written.

ARTICLE IV - OTHER VENDORS PERMITTED

In utilizing its premises, Concessionaire shall not violate in any manner the exclusive use rights that have been granted, or may be granted in the future, by the CRA to other businesses or organizations utilizing the Plaza.

ARTICLE X - FEES

As consideration for its possessory interest in the premises and for the right and privilege of operating a concession therein, Concessionaire shall pay to the CRA the greater of a minimum annual privilege fee or percentages of gross concession receipts as follows:

1. The minimum annual privilege fees for the term of this Agreement is $4,000.
2. Percentages of annual gross receipts for the term of the Agreement are: (s) prepared food and pre-packaged snack and candy items (8%); and (b) general merchandising items (8%).

Concessionaire's obligation to remit payments under this Agreement shall commence upon the date of execution of this Agreement. For purposes of computing Concessionaire's gross receipts for each year of this Agreement, the concession year shall be deemed to commence at midnight each year this Agreement is in effect and shall be deemed to terminate at 11:59 PM of the following year ("Concession Year"). The term "gross receipts" or "gross revenues" with respect to sales at all locations shall include all charges or other fees charged by Concessionaire on all sales made by Concessionaire of items and all revenues of any kind and character derived from, arising out of, or payable on account of the business conducted by Concessionaire or from the operations of Concessionaire under this Agreement, whether for cash or credit and without any deduction for credit card discounts, and regardless of whether Concessionaire ultimately collects the monies owed for said sales from the customer involved. Any gross receipts included in the formula for determining percentage rentals owed the CRA and determined by Concessionaire at a later date to be uncollectible shall not offset future percentage fees or privilege fees owed the CRA. The term shall also include the value of items when given by Concessionaire to anyone without charge except as provided herein. The term shall not include any sales tax or excise tax stated separately and collected from the customer for remittance to the taxing authority, tips and gratuities, free or compensatory items for employees of Concessionaire, or any other charges on a reimbursable basis as mutually agreed upon by the CRA Administrator and Concessionaire. All gross receipts shall be deemed to be received at the time of the determination of the amount due to Concessionaire, not at the time of billing or payment, unless specifically authorized by the CRA Administrator.

Within thirty (30) days following the end of each month this Agreement is in effect, Concessionaire shall pay to the CRA the amount equal to its percentage payment based on its gross concession revenue for previous month (e.g. payment for August due no later than September 30th). Said monthly payments shall be made to the CRA Office. At the same time, Concessionaire shall also remit sales tax due on the monthly rental amount. Said monthly installments shall be made payable to the "City of Pensacola" and forwarded to the office of the CRA Administrator.

At the same time that Concessionaire pays its monthly installment of its percentage payment based on its gross concession receipts, Concessionaire shall provide the CRA Administrator with an itemized statement showing the amount of gross revenues, as defined herein, Concessionaire enjoyed during the preceding calendar month, broken down by gross revenues derived from (a) 8% food item sales; and (b) 8% merchandising sales during said month, and a copy of the Concessionaire's State of Florida Department of Revenue Sales and Use Tax Return Receipt for said month. Simultaneously with its payment of percentage fees for the last month of the Concession Year, Concessionaire shall furnish the CRA with a written statement signed by the Chief Financial Officer stating that the percentage fees paid to the CRA during the preceding Concession Year were a true and accurate reflection of the revenue generated from the concession and that the payments were made in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Agreement. Additionally, if the percentage fees paid to the CRA for the preceding Concession Year were lower than minimum annual privilege fee as required from Concessionaire for the same year, at the same time as providing its payment of percentage fees for the last month, Concessionaire shall provide payment for the difference between the percentage fee paid and the minimum annual privilege fee owed, plus applicable sales tax.

Without waiving any other right of action available to the CRA in the event of default in payment of any and all fees, charges, or taxes hereunder, or in the event any payments required under this Agreement are not received when due, said payments shall accrue interest at the rate of one and one-half percent per month from the due date until receipt of payment. Any partial payments received for said indebtedness shall be applied first to accrued interest and then to principal.

ARTICLE XI - TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS

Concessionaire shall be responsible for and shall promptly pay all property taxes; personal property taxes; all sales and other taxes measured by or related to the payments hereunder required under law; all license fees; and any and all other taxes, charges, imposts or levies of any nature, whether general or special, which, at any time, may be in any way imposed by local, state, or federal authorities, or that become a lien upon the Concessionaire, the CRA, the premises, or any improvements thereon, by reason of this Agreement or Concessionaire's activities in, or improvements upon, the premises pursuant to this Agreement. The CRA warrants and represents that it shall not impose any taxes, assessments, or charges, except those imposed on all other business operating in the City of Pensacola, upon Concessionaire during the term of this Agreement.

In accordance with Florida law, every person who rents or leases any real property or who grants a license to use, occupy, or enter upon any real property is exercising a taxable privilege. The tax shall be added to the sales price or rental and the amount of the tax shall be separately stated as Florida tax on any charge tickets, sales slips, invoices, or other tangible evidence of sale or rental.

In consideration of the Concessionaire's use of the premises, the CRA has determined that the taxable annual rental amount for the premises shall be the greater of the annual privilege fee or percentage payment of gross receipts in accordance this Agreement. The taxable monthly rental amount will be multiplied by the current state and local sales tax percentage to determine monthly taxes due.

ARTICLE XII - BOOKS AND RECORDS/AUDITS

Concessionaire must maintain full and accurate books of account and records, in a form acceptable to the CRA, from which gross receipts, as defined herein, and the amount of percentage fees owed the CRA hereunder, can be determined according to standard and accepted accounting practices. The books of account and records that Concessionaire must maintain must include, but not be limited to, sales slips, cash register tapes, credit card invoices, monthly sales tax returns, sales and disbursement journals, general ledgers, bank statements, bank books, bank deposit slips and annual federal income tax returns. In lieu of maintaining the books of account and records required herein, Concessionaire may maintain computer records instead, provided that the CRA determines, in its sole discretion, in advance, that said computer records are a reasonably equivalent alternative to the maintenance of books and records otherwise required herein. These books and records shall be stored in Pensacola, Florida, for a period of at least five (5) years following the end of each annual period of this Agreement and be made available to the CRA upon request.

The CRA reserves the right to audit Concessionaire's books and records of gross receipts at any time for the purpose of verifying gross receipts hereunder. If any audit shows percentage payments and other charges that should have been paid to the CRA by the Concessionaire pursuant to the Agreement were understated or underpaid for the annual period involved, Concessionaire shall, within thirty (30) days' notice of any such deficiency, pay to the CRA the full amount underpaid, plus one and one-half percent (1.5%) interest per month on said underpayment from the time said underpayment should have been paid to the time said underpayment is fully paid. In addition, if the amount of underpayment exceeds one percent of the total percentage payment that was owed by Concessionaire to the CRA for the annual period involved, Concessionaire, in addition to paying the CRA the underpayment owed, shall reimburse the CRA for the cost of the audit. If any audit discloses overpayment of the percentage payments paid to the CRA by Concessionaire, the CRA shall refund the amount of overpayment to Concessionaire within thirty (30) days of said audit.

ARTICLE XIII - NOTICES OF PRICES

Concessionaire shall provide the CRA with a statement of prices of goods and services provided pursuant to this Agreement within fifteen (15) days of a written request for said prices by the CRA.

ARTICLE XIV - SECURITY DEPOSIT

Prior to commencing operations pursuant to this Agreement, Concessionaire must post with the CRA, a security deposit or letter of credit in the amount of $1,000 to cover Concessionaire's performance of all of its monetary or other obligations to the CRA hereunder for the entire term. If a letter of credit is to be provided by Concessionaire in lieu of a security deposit, it shall be in a form and from an institution acceptable to the CRA.

The deposit will be returned in full without interest at the termination of the Agreement upon verification by the CRA that the Concessionaire is in compliance with terms and obligations herein. The CRA may, but will not be obligated to, apply all or portions of the deposit on account of Concessionaire's obligations.

If any policy is not timely replaced, in a manner acceptable to the CRA, Concessionaire shall, upon instructions of the CRA, cease all operations under the Concession Agreement until directed by the CRA, in writing, to resume operations.

5. Insurance of Concessionaire Primary. Concessionaire required coverage shall be considered primary, and all other insurance shall be considered as excess, over and above Concessionaire's coverage. Concessionaire's policy of coverage will be considered primary as it relates to all provisions of the Concession Agreement.
6. Loss Control and Safety. Concessionaire shall retain control over its employees, agents, servants and subcontractors, as well as control over its invitees, and its activities on and about the subject premises and the manner in which such activities shall be undertaken and to that end, Concessionaire shall not be deemed to be an agent of the CRA. Precaution shall be exercised at all times by Concessionaire for the protection of all persons, including employees and property. Concessionaire shall make special effort to detect hazards and shall take prompt action where loss control/safety measures should reasonably be expected.
7. Hold Harmless. Concessionaire shall hold harmless the CRA, City of Pensacola, its subsidiaries or affiliates, elected and appointed officials, employees, volunteers, representatives and agents from any and all claims, suits, actions, damages, liability and expense in connection with loss of life, bodily or personal injury, or property damage including loss of use thereof, directly or indirectly caused by, resulting from, arising out of, or occurring in connection with this Concession Agreement, whether occasioned wholly, or in part, by negligence of Concessionaire. Neither the CRA nor the CRA's officers, employees or agents have made any representations or promises whatsoever with respect to the premises or services to the premises or services to be provided by the CRA in connection with their use, except as expressly set forth herein. The taking of possession of the premises "as-is" by the Concessionaire shall be conclusive evidence that the premises were in an acceptable and safe condition at the time possession was initially taken by the Concessionaire regardless of any subsequent claim by the Concessionaire to the contrary. The CRA shall have the right to construct or install over, in, under, or through the premises new lines, pipes, mains, wires, conduits and equipment, provided, however, that such repair, alteration, replacement, or construction shall not unreasonably interfere with Concessionaire's use of the premises. The CRA will repair any damage resulting from such activities.

ARTICLE XVII - CONCESSIONAIRE'S IMPROVEMENTS

Concessionaire may at Concessionaire's sole cost and expense install or construct within the premises additional improvements necessary to transact Concessionaire's business under this Agreement. Any additional requirements shall be the responsibility of the Concessionaire. The Concessionaire shall be required to construct all improvements and install all furnishings, equipment, fixtures, etc. that may be required for its operation. The CRA shall not be obligated to provide for the extension of these utilities or to provide for the installation of any other utilities. The Concessionaire, at the Concessionaire's sole cost and expense, shall arrange for the extension of these utilities to the premises as needed. Throughout the term of this Agreement, the Concessionaire shall not render any utility lines inaccessible. Concessionaire shall be responsible for the maintenance and repair of all utility lines from the above referenced point up to and including the distribution system inside the premises. The CRA reserves the right to invoice the Concessionaire for utilities used by Concessionaire. The Concessionaire shall be solely responsible for the cost of telephone services from the premises and shall obtain a separate account accordingly. The CRA reserves the right to install, maintain, repair, replace, or remove and replace any utility lines located on the premises as necessary or appropriate, along with the right to enter the premises at all reasonable times in order to accomplish the foregoing, provided, however, that the CRA shall take reasonable precautions to avoid the disruption of the Concessionaire's authorized activity.

Maintenance. During the term of this Agreement, the CRA shall provide, at its expense, (a) structural repairs to the roof, floor, exterior walls and windows of the premises, and (b) general maintenance and upkeep of the Plaza de Luna open park area. The CRA agrees to keep and maintain in reasonable condition all trunk water and sewer mains, supply mains and electrical power to the premises. Should the CRA be required to make any repairs or improvements under the provisions herein contained, the CRA shall not be liable to Concessionaire for any damage caused by disrepair of any kind until the CRA has had reasonable opportunity to perform repairs after being notified in writing of the need for same by Concessionaire.

Concessionaire, at its own expense shall maintain and repair all interior and exterior areas assigned for the concession, including all equipment and furnishings therein. Concessionaire shall be required to keep all such areas in good operating condition and repair at all times. Items the Concessionaire shall be required to maintain and make necessary repairs to shall include, but not be limited to, the interior windows; doors and entrances; storefronts; signs; floor coverings; interior walls and ceilings; the interior surface; the surfaces of interior columns exclusive of structural deficiencies; and lighting within the premises and serving Concessionaire.

Concessionaire agrees to keep all of the premises in a neat, clean, safe, sanitary and orderly condition at all times; that it will keep such areas free at all times of all paper, rubbish and debris; and that Concessionaire will deposit all trash and debris resulting from its operations in its premises in containers approved by the CRA. Concessionaire agrees to provide, at its own expense, such janitorial and cleaning services and supplies for the maintenance of its premises. Concessionaire also agrees to keep and maintain the premises in a clean, neat and sanitary condition and attractive appearance and shall additionally provide: (a) building exterior window cleaning, (b) pest control services for the premises and (c) waste disposal.

Should Concessionaire fail to maintain the premises in conformance with the terms and conditions of this article within a period of seven (7) days following written notice of such failure, the CRA reserves the right to take any action to cure said failure. Should the CRA take action to cure failures, the Concessionaire shall pay to the CRA an amount equal to the CRA's cost for such actions plus a ten percent (10%) administrative charge.

ARTICLE XIX - SIGNS

Concessionaire agrees that no signs, logos, or advertising displays shall be painted on or erected in any manner upon the premises, or in or on any improvements or additions on the premises, without the prior written approval of the CRA, and said approval shall not be unreasonably withheld; and that signs identifying Concessionaire shall conform to reasonable standards established by the CRA, with respect to type, size, design, condition and location.

ARTICLE XX- DAMAGE TO FACILITY

Concessionaire shall be liable for any damage to the premises and fixtures therein and to the Facility and to any improvements thereon caused by Concessionaire, its partners, officers, agents, employees, invitees, contractors, subcontractors, assigns, or anyone acting under its direction and control, ordinary wear and tear excepted. All repairs for which Concessionaire is liable shall be made by Concessionaire with due diligence and in a manner acceptable to the CRA unless the CRA determines that it is more appropriate for the CRA to make the repairs. In such a case, the CRA shall make the repairs at Concessionaire's expense. All repairs for which Concessionaire is liable and which are not undertaken after the CRA has given Concessionaire notice to so do shall be performed by the CRA, in which event Concessionaire shall reimburse the CRA for the cost thereof, plus a ten percent (10%) administrative charge, and said amount shall be due no later than the date of the next minimum guarantee payment.

The CRA shall not be liable to Concessionaire, the Concessionaire's employees, patrons, or vendors for any damage to their merchandise, trade fixtures, or personal property caused by water leakage from the roof, water lines, sprinkler, or venting equipment unless caused by the sole negligence of the CRA, its employees or agents.

ARTICLE XXI - REPAIRS

In the event that structural or permanent portions of the premises shall be partially damaged by fire or other casualty, Concessionaire shall give immediate notice thereof to the CRA Administrator. The same shall be repaired at the expense of the CRA unless fire or other casualty is the fault of Concessionaire, its partners, officers, agents, employees, invitees, contractors, subcontractors, assigns, or anyone acting under its direction and control, in which case Concessionaire shall be liable for expense of the repairs. In any event, the CRA shall proceed with the repairs without unreasonable delay unless the CRA determines that the damage is so extensive that repair or rebuilding is not feasible.

From the date of such casualty until the premises are repaired, monthly minimum privilege payments hereunder, but not the payment of the percentage of gross receipts, shall abate in such proportion as the part of the premises so destroyed or rendered inoperable bears to the premises assigned, provided, however, that if a portion of the premises shall be so slightly damaged in any such casualty as not to be rendered unfit for occupancy, the monthly minimum privilege payments hereunder shall not cease or be abated during any repair period.

In the event that the damage to the premises should be so extensive as to render it inoperable, the monthly minimum privilege payments for such area shall cease until such time as it shall again be put in repair. However, in the event the premises are damaged by fire or other casualty to such an extent as to render it necessary in the sole discretion of the CRA not to rebuild the same then, at the option of the CRA and upon notice to Concessionaire, this Agreement as it applies to said premises shall cease and come to an end, and the privilege and percentage payments hereunder shall be apportioned and paid up to the date of such damage. If the CRA elects to rebuild said premises, the CRA shall notify Concessionaire of such intention within thirty (30) days of the date of the notice of damage; otherwise the Agreement as it applies to said premises shall be deemed canceled and of no further force or effect.

The CRA's obligations to rebuild or repair the premises under this Article shall in any event be limited to restoring the premises to substantially the condition that existed prior to the commencement of construction of improvements by Concessionaire. Concessionaire agrees that if the CRA elects to rebuild or repair as provided in this Article, then Concessionaire will proceed with reasonable diligence and, at its sole cost and expense, rebuild, repair and restore its signs, fixtures, furnishings, equipment, improvements and other items provided or installed by Concessionaire, in or about the premises, in a manner and to a condition at least equal to that which existed prior to its damage or destruction.

Prior to making any repairs other than to its own equipment, Concessionaire shall discuss the same with the CRA Administrator to determine whether the CRA shall make repairs to the premises using CRA's personnel and charging Concessionaire its standard rates for such service, including overhead, and including all costs for materials. Should the CRA elect not to perform the repairs to the premises then all work performed by Concessionaire must be inspected and approved by the CRA Administrator or his/her designated representative.

All repairs performed by Concessionaire, or on its behalf by an authorized contractor, shall be of first class quality in both materials and workmanship. All repairs, and the use of an independent contractor shall be made in conformity with the rules and regulations prescribed from time to time by federal, state, or local authorities having jurisdiction over the work in the premises.

ARTICLE XXII - DEFAULT AND REMEDIES

The following shall constitute defaults by Concessionaire:

1. As the provision of concessions as contemplated herein is a material inducement to this Agreement, any failure by Concessionaire to perform any covenant or obligation required by this Agreement, specifically such regarding provision of services, hours of operation and other terms made to ensure a high quality concessions operation for the City of Pensacola Plaza de Luna Park, and the failure to cure said default within a period of five (5) days following written notice of said default.
2. The failure to pay any fees owed under this Agreement, or under any other agreement between the CRA and Concessionaire, when due, and the failure to cure said default within a period of thirty (30) days following written notice of said default.
3. The failure to perform any other conditions, not related to the provision of concessions, and non-monetary in nature, and the failure to cure said default within a period of thirty (30) days following written notice of said default.
4. Concessionaire undertakes any other commercial or non-commercial service or activity not specifically permitted under this Agreement.
5. If during the term of this Agreement Concessionaire shall:
 - (a) Apply for, or consent to the appointment of a receiver, trustee, or liquidator of all or a substantial part of its interests;
 - (b) File a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or admit in writing its inability to pay its debts as they come due;
 - (c) Make a general assignment for the benefit of creditors;
 - (d) File a petition or an answer seeking reorganization or arrangement with creditors or to take advantage of an insolvency law;
 - (e) File an answer admitting the material allegations of a petition filed against any said assignee or sub-lessee in any bankruptcy, reorganization or insolvency proceedings; or if during the term of this Agreement an order, judgment, or decree shall be entered by any court of competent jurisdiction, on the application of a creditor, adjudicating Concessionaire bankrupt or insolvent, or approving a petition seeking a reorganization of Concessionaire, and such order, judgment, or decree shall continue un-stayed and in effect for any period of ninety (90) consecutive days.

6. Abandonment of Concessionaire's operations, which shall be defined as Concessionaire's failure to conduct regular and continuing operations in accordance with the requirements of this Agreement for one (1) month.
7. The management, ownership, or operation of the Concessionaire should change to such an extent that it would not satisfactorily perform, then the CRA shall have the right to terminate this Agreement.

If Concessionaire defaults, the CRA may utilize any one or more of the following remedies against Concessionaire. These remedies shall be considered cumulative and not in the alternative:

1. The CRA may sue for specific performance;
2. The CRA may sue for all damages incurred by the CRA, including incidental damages, consequential damages and attorney's fees;
3. The CRA may utilize a portion of or all of the security deposit provided by Concessionaire to remedy the default and to reimburse the CRA for any damages, including attorney's fees and other expenses of collection that it may sustain. In such event, Concessionaire shall not be permitted to resume operations under this Agreement until such time as it furnishes another performance security that satisfies the requirements of Article XII. However, this Agreement shall not be deemed terminated during said period, unless written notice of termination shall have been given and become effective in accordance with subparagraph 4, below. Concessionaire shall be required to fulfill all of the terms and conditions of this Agreement, including the payment of guaranteed minimum privilege fees and percentage fees arising during the time it takes to procure the bond.
4. The CRA may terminate this Agreement, and, at the option of the CRA, any other agreement in effect between the CRA and Concessionaire. The termination of these agreements, however, shall only be effective upon written notice of same provided by the CRA to Concessionaire. In no event shall this Agreement be construed to be terminated unless and until such notice is provided. The termination may be effective immediately upon provision of said notice, or at any other time specified in the notice. If this Agreement is terminated, Concessionaire shall continue to be liable for the performance of all terms and conditions, specifically including those contained in Article XV, INSURANCE AND INDEMNIFICATION, above, and the payment of all fees due hereunder prior to the effective date of said termination, in addition to all damages, including attorney's fees and other expenses of collection, incurred by the CRA as a result of any default.
5. Without terminating the Agreement by so doing, and without further notice to Concessionaire, the CRA may re-enter the premises with or without process of law, repossess the premises and all fixtures and improvements thereon, and remove Concessionaire and any third parties who may be occupying or within the premises and all of their respective personal property, by using either such reasonable force as may be necessary, summary proceedings, ejectment, or any other means the CRA, in its sole discretion, deems appropriate without being deemed guilty of trespass, eviction, or forcible entry and detainer by so doing. In such case, the CRA shall be obligated to attempt, in good faith, to negotiate the re-letting of the premises, and any improvements thereon, or any portion thereof, on behalf of Concessionaire, for such period of time and upon such terms and conditions as the CRA deems appropriate. The CRA shall in no way be obligated under the terms of this subparagraph to re-let all or any portion of the premises, or any improvement thereon, to any third party, or upon terms and conditions that are not acceptable to the CRA, or which the CRA, in its sole discretion, does not feel to be in the best interests of the CRA; nor shall the CRA be responsible for any failure of the sub-Concessionaire or new Concessionaire to pay rent or to perform any other conditions due upon such re-letting. Concessionaire hereby expressly authorizes the CRA to make any reasonable repairs necessary to re-let the premises, or any improvements thereon, on Concessionaire's behalf. Assuming the CRA attempts to re-let the premises in good faith, whether or not the CRA is able to re-let the premises, Concessionaire shall remain liable for the performance of all terms and conditions of the Agreement and the payment of all fees due under the terms of the Agreement for the remainder of the Leasehold term, although Concessionaire shall receive credit for any fees paid or conditions performed as a result of subletting. Concessionaire shall also be responsible for reimbursing the CRA for all costs and expenses the CRA incurs in re-letting or attempting to re-let the premises, including commission/broker fees and reasonable repair costs. Finally, if, as a result of such re-letting, the CRA becomes entitled to receive excess fees or other benefits over and above what the CRA would have been entitled to receive under this Agreement, the CRA shall be entitled to retain all such surplus fees and other benefits, and Concessionaire shall have no rights or interest therein.

6. The CRA may utilize any other remedy provided by law or equity as a result of Concessionaire's default(s).

In the event of a bankruptcy filing by or on behalf of Concessionaire as debtor, the parties hereto agree that this Agreement shall be construed to be a nonresidential lease of real property subject to treatment in accordance with 11 U.S.C., Section 365(d).

ARTICLE XXIII - TERMINATION WITHOUT CAUSE

CRA may terminate this agreement without cause upon thirty (30) days prior written notice. The CRA shall not be responsible to the Concessionaire for any lost profits, expenses, liabilities or claims whatsoever that may result from termination by the Concessionaire or the CRA pursuant to this Article.

ARTICLE XXIV - INSPECTION

The CRA and its authorized officers, employees, agents, contractors, subcontractors and other representatives shall have the right to enter upon the premises for the following purposes:

1. To inspect the premises to determine whether Concessionaire has complied with and is complying with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.
2. To perform maintenance and make repairs in any case where Concessionaire is obligated but has failed to do so.

2. Concessionaire shall furnish its accommodations and/or services on a fair, equal, and non-discriminatory basis to all users thereof and it shall charge fair, reasonable, and non-discriminatory prices for each unit or service, PROVIDED THAT Concessionaire may be allowed to make reasonable and non-discriminatory discounts, rebates, or other similar type of price reductions to volume purchasers.
3. Concessionaire shall make its accommodations and/or services available to the public on fair and reasonable terms without unjust discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color, sex, age, national origin, or disability.
4. Non-compliance with subparagraphs A, B, or C, above, after written finding, shall constitute a material breach thereof and in the event of such non-compliance the CRA shall have the right to terminate this Agreement and the estate hereby created without liability therefore or at the election of the CRA or the United States either or both said Governments shall have the right to judicially enforce said subparagraphs A, B, and C.
5. Concessionaire assures that it will undertake an affirmative action program as required by 14 C.F.R. Part 152, Subpart E, to ensure that no person shall on the grounds of race, creed, color, national origin, sex or disability be excluded from participating in any employment activities covered in 14 C.F.R. Part 152, Subpart E. Concessionaire assures that no person shall be excluded on these grounds from participating in or receiving the services or benefits of any program or activity covered by this subpart. Concessionaire assures that it will require that its covered sub-organizations provide assurances to Concessionaire that they similarly will undertake affirmative action programs and that they will require assurances from their sub-organizations as required by 14 C.F.R. Part 152, Subpart E, to the same effect.

ARTICLE XXVII - AUTHORIZATION

If Concessionaire is a limited or general partnership, the undersigned warrants and represents that (1) he/she is a general partner or agent of said partnership; (2) his/her execution of this Agreement has been authorized by all of the general partners and is in the usual course of the partnership's business; and (3) by his/her execution of this Agreement, the partnership shall be deemed a signator to this Agreement in the same fashion as if all of the general partners of the partnership had executed this Agreement.

If Concessionaire is a corporation, the undersigned warrants and represents that: (1) he/she is an agent of the corporation; (2) he/she is authorized to execute this Agreement on the corporation's behalf; and (3) the corporation shall be bound as a signator to this Agreement by his/her execution of it.

ARTICLE XXVIII - WAIVER

Should Concessionaire breach any of its obligations hereunder, the CRA nevertheless may thereafter accept from Concessionaire any payment or payments due hereunder, and continue this Agreement in effect, without in any way waiving the CRA's right to exercise its default rights hereunder, or any other remedies provided by law, for said breach. In addition, any waiver by the CRA of any default, breach, or omission of Concessionaire under this Agreement shall not be construed as a waiver of any subsequent or different default, breach, or omission.

ARTICLE XXIX - NOTICES

The release shall be effective only if made in writing. All subsequent assignors and assignees shall be subject to this Article as if they were the original Concessionaire.

EXHIBIT A

CONCESSION SERVICES

Background

Completed in 2007, Plaza de Luna was constructed on the site of the former Bayfront Auditorium. This 2+ acre park at the terminus of Palafox overlooking Pensacola Bay features generous lawns, onsite parking with a circular drive, and approximately 1,800 lineal feet of waterfront accessibility (including 600 lineal feet at the breakwater. Approximately 1,200 lineal feet of the waterfront is available for fishing.) The Pensacola City Council named the new park for Don Tristan de Luna, the Spanish explorer who established Pensacola in 1559 as the first European settlement in the United States.

The public enjoys numerous casual activities including fishing, jogging, strolling, interactive fountain play, kite flying and Frisbee. City-permitted special events are held at the park and adjacent areas throughout the year, including fishing tournaments, weddings, visiting ships/marine vessels, festivals, and concerts. Thousands of vehicles drive through Plaza de Luna each day, and hundreds of downtown employees are located within walking distance of the park. A concession and restroom facility was constructed in 2009 to complement and enhance the public enjoyment of the plaza. The facility is designed for counter service from two sides of the building, features additional patio space, waterfront and park views, and provides restroom facilities as required for the operation of the adjacent interactive fountain.

While concerned with revenue from its concessions, the CRA is also concerned with meeting the following objectives in this concession program:

- Providing a high level of service to Plaza de Luna visitors.
- Enhancing the image of the Plaza with residents and visitors.
- Enlivening public space through the establishment of family-friendly facilities.
- Providing a clean and secure public restroom for year-round access by the public.

Grant of Use

The Concessionaire shall have the right to use the premises solely for the operation of a food service, general merchandise concession, and related services as authorized under the Concession Agreement.

The Concessionaire shall assume the following general obligations:

- Concessionaire shall operate a food service concession including all services reasonably necessary for such operation. General merchandise may also be offered for sale. The Concessionaire shall offer, as a minimum, prepared foods, beverages and an assortment of pre-packaged, single serving individually wrapped snacks and candy items. Alcohol sales may be permitted with a Concessionaire-held restaurant license and accessory 2-COP alcoholic beverage license (beer and wine) from the Florida Department of Business and Professional regulation. Consumption of alcoholic beverages must be contained within the leased premises and may not be allowed in Plaza de Luna. Package alcohol and tobacco sales are prohibited.
- Concessionaire shall sell products only at the initial prices set forth in this Exhibit. Any proposed price increases during the term of the agreement must be forwarded to the CRA for review and approval prior to implementation. The Concessionaire must provide information substantiating the proposed price increase. When reviewing a request to increase prices, the CRA shall take into account the information substantiating the increase, the amount of the proposed increase, and the amount of time elapsed between the increase request and either the commencement of the concession or any previously approved increases. The CRA shall not unreasonably deny such requests.

- Concessionaire shall provide access to the men's and women's restrooms during the operation of the Plaza's interactive fountain and concession service. Concessionaire shall regularly inspect the restrooms to assure they are clean and maintained for the public during all operational hours and provide all services and supplies necessary for such operation.
- Reserved parking spaces in Plaza de Luna will not be provided

Supplies, Materials and Equipment

It is the responsibility of the Concessionaire to furnish all services, labor, materials, equipment, tools, insurance, permits, and fees (if any) necessary to render the services as set forth by the CRA. The Concessionaire will be solely responsible for the installation, construction, and furnishing of all items necessary for the operation of the concession. The Concessionaire will also make all required mechanical and electrical installations and connections. All installations shall be in accordance with plans submitted to and approved by the CRA, and/or other City departments as may be applicable. All mechanical and electrical installations and connections shall become the property of the CRA upon installation, except only plug-in connections. Ownership of improvements by the Concessionaire will be governed by the Concession Agreement as executed.

Maintenance

All maintenance relating to both the interior and exterior areas assigned for the concession, including restroom floors and walls; plumbing fixtures; supply, refill and cleaning of toilet accessories; electrical fixtures; all equipment and furnishings therein, will be the responsibility of the Concessionaire and it will be required to keep the area in good operating condition and repair and to keep such in a clean and neat condition and appearance. In addition, the Concessionaire will cooperate with the CRA and City in the maintenance and upkeep of the adjacent Park areas. The facility must be returned to the CRA at the completion of the Agreement in the same condition as it was provided to the Concessionaire with allowances for reasonable wear and tear.

Utilities

Due to the unique nature of the Park, the CRA is responsible for the following utilities for the concession and restroom facilities: electric, natural gas, water and sewer. Concessionaire is responsible for all other including but not limited to garbage, telephone, internet access, alarm system, etc.

Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, it is expressly agreed that Contractor's failure to comply with this provision, within seven (7) days of notice from the CRA, shall constitute an immediate and material breach of contract for which the CRA may, in the CRA's sole discretion, unilaterally terminate this agreement without prejudice to any right or remedy.
22. Qualification Withdrawals: No qualification may be withdrawn after closing time for receipt of qualifications for a period of sixty (60) days thereafter. The contract award shall be legally binding at the time of award by City Council or Mayor.

The face of the qualification envelope shall be plainly marked identifying the service(s) proposed and the qualification number. It shall be the sole responsibility of the respondent to assure receipt of qualification at the Purchasing Office prior to the published time for the qualification submittal deadline. No qualification will be accepted after closing time for receipt of qualifications, nor will any offers by telephone, fax, internet or email be accepted.
25. Tax: The CRA is exempt from all State and local sales tax.
26. Termination for Convenience: A contract may be terminated in whole or in part by the CRA at any time and for any reason in accordance with this clause whenever the CRA shall determine that such termination is in the best interest of the CRA. Any such termination shall be effected by the delivery to the contractor at least thirty (30) working days before the effective date of a Notice of Termination specifying the extent to which performance shall be terminated and the date upon which termination becomes effective. An equitable adjustment in the contract price shall be made for the completed service, but no amount shall be allowed for anticipated profit on unperformed services.
27. Unauthorized Aliens: The CRA shall consider the employment by any contracted vendor of unauthorized aliens a violation of Section 274A of the Immigration and Nationality Act. Such violation shall be cause for unilateral termination of this contract.

All provisions of the Lease will be subject to renegotiation at that time. To exercise this option to renew, Lessee must give Lessor written notice of intention to do so, no less than six (6) months prior to expiration of the term of this Lease. Such renewal shall not be deemed automatic and shall be conditions on Lessor's acceptance.

SUPPORT FOR PENSACOLA NEW YEAR'S EVE PELICAN DROP CELEBRATION PARTNERSHIP

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) recommend the establishment and participation in an interagency partnership to take responsibility for the ongoing implementation of the Pensacola New Year's Eve Pelican Drop Celebration.

SUMMARY:

Over the past nine years, the Pensacola New Year's Eve Pelican Drop has become an iconic event bringing 50-60,000 people into Pensacola's downtown with a sizable, positive economic benefit. In 2016, the Pensacola community faced the potential loss of this event for lack of a sponsor. The Pelican Drop did proceed, thanks to an ad hoc, voluntary coalition of citizens partnering with Gallery Night Pensacola, Inc., that galvanized at the eleventh hour to implement the event for the 2017 New Year. City Council provided the critical funding needed to support the event.

To facilitate the long term continuation of this quality event that has become a Pensacola icon and tourist draw, it is recommended that an interagency partnership be established, including the CRA, City of Pensacola, Escambia County, Visit Pensacola, DIB, and other community stakeholders to take responsibility for the ongoing implementation and support for the Pensacola New Year's Eve Pelican Drop Celebration. Funding for this event is proposed in the CRA FY 2018 Budget.

PRIOR ACTION:

October 8, 2008 - CRA official kick off of the Downtown Countdown (Pelican Drop)

September 29, 2011 - Approval of Interlocal Agreement with DIB for CRA Events

October 10, 2016 - Approval of 30 day notice to terminate the Interlocal Agreement with DIB

October 10, 2016 - Approval of Pelican use by Pensacola Mardi Grad from January 5-February 28, 2017.

November 14, 2016 - CRA recommended City Council funding of the 2017 New Year's Pelican Drop

November 17, 2016 - City Council approved funding for the 2017 New Year's Pelican Drop

FUNDING:

Budget: $ 30,000

Actual: $ 30,000

FINANCIAL IMPACT:

Enlivenment activities will continue to bring people to the Urban Core CRA in support of downtown businesses and local economic development. Funding is available in the FY 2018 Community Redevelopment Agency Fund Budget.

2018 STATE OF FLORIDA LEGISLATIVE PRIORITIES

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) identify the continuation of Florida's CRAs as a priority consideration for the 2018 Legislative Session.

SUMMARY:

The Florida legislative session is kicking off in early January due to 2018 being an election year. Committee meetings will begin in September. City Administration has asked that the CRA identify priority legislative issues it would like see to put forth in discussions and strategy sessions.

It is anticipated that legislation proposing amendments to Chapter 163, Part III, Community Redevelopment Act, Florida Statutes, including revisions to reporting and operational requirements, the allowable use of redevelopment trust fund proceeds, and establishes provisions for a phase-out period of Florida CRAs, will be reintroduced.

Key provisions of the 2017 legislation proposals included:

- Halting all expenditures of Tax Increment Financing (TIF) which have not been encumbered to a particular project or committed to repayment of debt service as of July 1, 2017.
- Restricting the ability of CRAs to undertake revitalization activities due to limitations on allowable expenditures as of July 1, 2017.
- Halting local redevelopment efforts resulting in profound negative impacts to the City of Pensacola's community revitalization efforts.
- Disallowing any new projects or debt or refinancing.
- Terminating all CRAs by 2037.

- 1) Florida Redevelopment Agency CRA Summary

PRESENTATION: No

Community redevelopment agencies (CRAs) are incredibly successful tools for breathing new life into communities that have been neglected or forgotten. Their purpose is to eradicate physical blight in its many forms – through local leadership and a publicly vetted redevelopment plan. There are no state or federal monies spent by CRAs. Revenues used by CRAs come from FUTURE property value increases in the area - called “increment” because they are incremental increases in value. The often slow but steady rebirth of a neighborhood, commercial area or community is guided by the citizens of the area through the CRA plan, budget and hearings.

The redevelopment plan is created by the community and implemented according to that public plan. CRAs are uniquely designed to address our citizens’ specific needs for revitalization.

There are several annual CRA reports required by state law, including independent audits.

While a CRA nurses an area back to health through a strategic blend of redevelopment initiatives, it provides the building blocks for other stakeholders to join in the process. The end result, at the end of the CRA term, is a more vibrant, livable and healthy community for all its citizens. The economy is better, businesses are supported, public areas are safe and clean, and it is a place where people want to take out-of-town guests when they visit.

The Florida Redevelopment Association (FRA) looks forward to working with any interested parties to provide information on CRA legal practices, challenges and successes. We are continuously educating members (and anyone interested in community redevelopment) through the academy course and professional certification program, workshops, annual conferences and webinars offering best practices and expert advise. You may visit www.redevelopment.net for more information on how we serve our members and the exceptional work CRAs are doing in Florida.

Key Facts:

- Redevelopment efforts are key to revitalizing housing and commercial areas.
- Redevelopment supports vital community assets identified by the local community.
- CRAs are a recurring funding source for infrastructure, crime prevention and business growth.

RESOLUTION NO. 2017-7 - AUTHORIZING AN INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE CITY OF PENSACOLA AND THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY PERTAINING TO THE WESTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 2017.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency adopt Resolution No. 2017-7.

A RESOLUTION OF THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY OF THE CITY OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, RELATING TO THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT WITHIN THE REDEVELOPMENT AREA ESTABLISHED BY CITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION NO. 04-07; PROVIDING FINDINGS; APPROVING THE FORM OF AND AUTHORIZING THE EXECUTION OF AN INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT WITH THE CITY OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, PERTAINING TO THE WESTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT REVENUE BOND, SERIES 2017 AND PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

SUMMARY:

On April 10, 2017, the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing (TIF) revenues. Westside projects approved by the CRA at the meeting included land acquisitions, various streetscape projects and sidewalk enhancements.

Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC has pursued financing options and has recommended SmartBank as the lender. SmartBank has offered twenty (20) year financing for both the CRA's Eastside and Westside Tax Increment Financing Districts at a fixed interest rate of 3.33%. Interest will be paid semi-annually on October 1 and April 1 of each year and principal payments will be paid annually on April 1 commencing on April 1, 2018 and maturing on April 1, 2037. The pledged revenues include Tax Increment Revenues derived from the Westside Redevelopment Area, and in the event that these revenues are insufficient, the Local Business Tax. The City's bond attorney has incorporated within the Resolution an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA whereby the CRA agrees that in the event that Tax

Increment Revenues are insufficient to fully pay the principal and interest on the Series 2017 Bond, and the City advances Local Business Tax for the payment thereof, the CRA shall repay such advance plus interest to the City once funds become available.

Upon approval of the financing by City Council, the Westside Redevelopment Revenue Bond proceeds will be available to fund land acquisitions, various streetscape projects and sidewalk enhancements. Any remaining proceeds can be used for capital improvements as identified in the Westside Neighborhood Plan.

Estimated Tax Increment Revenues are sufficient to meet debt service requirements for the twenty (20) year financing term as well as cover operations as currently structured in the fiscal year 2018 budget. However, for the next twenty (20) years, Tax Increment Revenues will be fully committed and additional projects as identified in the Westside Neighborhood Plan will need to come from revenue growth or other sources.

The financing team consists of Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC and Randy Clement, Esq., with Bryant Miller Olive, the City's Bond Counsel.

In accordance with Section 163.346, Florida Statutes, a notice regarding the proposed issuance of the Westside Redevelopment Revenue Bond, Series 2017 has been sent to each taxing authority which levies ad valorem taxes on taxable real property contained within the geographic boundaries of the redevelopment area. Further, a notice of the public meeting has been published in the Pensacola News Journal of such proposed action in accordance with Florida Statutes.

FINANCIAL IMPACT:

There is no immediate financial impact as the estimated Tax Increment Revenues are sufficient to meet debt service requirements for the twenty (20) year financing term. However, should the CRA have to draw upon the Local Business Tax for the debt service payment, the CRA will be required to repay such advance plus interest to the City once funds become available. If this occurs, the interest rate shall be calculated using the "WSJ Prime Rate" published by The Wall Street Journal or such other prime rate as published by such other publication as the Chief Financial Officer may reasonably designate.

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET RESOLUTION NO. 2017-9 - APPROPRIATING FUNDING IN CONNECTION WITH THE WESTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 2016

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency adopt Supplemental Budget Resolution No. 2017-9.

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING AND MAKING REVISIONS AND APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 2017; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

SUMMARY:

On April 10, 2017, the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing (TIF) revenues. Westside projects approved by the CRA at the meeting included land acquisitions, various streetscape projects and sidewalk enhancements.

Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC has pursued financing options and has recommended SmartBank as the lender. SmartBank has offered twenty (20) year financing for both the CRA's Eastside and Westside Tax Increment Financing Districts at a fixed interest rate of 3.33%. Interest will be paid semi-annually on October 1 and April 1 of each year and principal payments will be paid annually on April 1 commencing on April 1, 2018 and maturing on April 1, 2037. The pledged revenues include Tax Increment Revenues derived from the Westside Redevelopment Area, and in the event that these revenues are insufficient, the Local Business Tax. The City's bond attorney has incorporated within the Resolution an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA whereby the CRA agrees that in the event that Tax Increment Revenues are insufficient to fully pay the principal and interest on the Series 2017 Bond, and the City advances Local Business Tax for the payment thereof, the CRA shall repay such advance plus interest to the City once funds become available.

Upon approval of the financing by City Council, the Westside Redevelopment Revenue Bond proceeds will be available to fund land acquisitions, various streetscape projects and sidewalk enhancements. Any remaining proceeds can be used for capital improvements as identified in the Westside Neighborhood Plan.

Estimated Tax Increment Revenues are sufficient to meet debt service requirements for the twenty (20) year financing term as well as cover operations as currently structured in the fiscal year 2018 budget. However, for the next twenty (20) years, Tax Increment Revenues will be fully committed and additional projects as identified in the Westside Neighborhood Plan will need to come from revenue growth or other sources.

The financing team consists of Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC and Randy Clement, Esq., with Bryant Miller Olive, the City's Bond Counsel.

In accordance with Section 163.346, Florida Statutes, a notice regarding the proposed issuance of the Westside Redevelopment Revenue Bond, Series 2017 has been sent to each taxing authority which levies ad valorem taxes on taxable real property contained within the geographic boundaries of the redevelopment area. Further, a notice of the public meeting has been published in the Pensacola News Journal of such proposed action in accordance with Florida Statutes.

RESOLUTION NO. 2017-10 - AUTHORIZING AN INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE CITY OF PENSACOLA AND THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY PERTAINING TO THE EASTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 2017.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency adopt Resolution No. 2017-10.

A RESOLUTION OF THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY OF THE CITY OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, RELATING TO THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT WITHIN THE URBAN INFILL AND REDEVELOPMENT AREA ESTABLISHED BY CITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION NO. 41-05; PROVIDING FINDINGS; APPROVING THE FORM OF AND AUTHORIZING THE EXECUTION OF AN INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT WITH THE CITY OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, PERTAINING TO THE EASTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT REVENUE BOND, SERIES 2017 AND PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

SUMMARY:

On April 10, 2017, the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing (TIF) revenues. Eastside projects approved by the CRA at the meeting included the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project, affordable housing rehabilitation and greenway improvements.

Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC has pursued financing options and has recommended SmartBank as the lender. SmartBank has offered twenty (20) year financing for both the CRA's Eastside and Westside Tax Increment Financing Districts at a fixed interest rate of 3.33%. Interest will be paid semi-annually on October 1 and April 1 of each year and principal payments will be paid annually on April 1 commencing on April 1, 2018 and maturing on April 1, 2037. The pledged revenues include Tax Increment Revenues derived from the Eastside Redevelopment Area, and in the event that these revenues are insufficient, the Local Business Tax. The City's bond attorney has incorporated within the Resolution an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA whereby the CRA agrees that in the event that Tax

Increment Revenues are insufficient to fully pay the principal and interest on the Series 2017 Bond, and the City advances Local Business Tax for the payment thereof, the CRA shall repay such advance plus interest to the City once funds become available.

Upon approval of the financing by City Council, the Eastside Redevelopment Revenue Bond proceeds will be available to fund the remaining cost for the construction of the General Daniel “Chappie” James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project. Any remaining proceeds can be used for capital improvements as identified in the Eastside Neighborhood Plan.

Estimated Tax Increment Revenues are sufficient to meet debt service requirements for the twenty (20) year financing term as well as cover operations as currently structured in the fiscal year 2018 budget. However, for the next twenty (20) years, Tax Increment Revenues will be fully committed and additional projects as identified in the Eastside Neighborhood Plan will need to come from revenue growth or other sources.

On January 12, 2017, City Council approved the transfer of $440,000 from the City’s General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund, specifically for the General Daniel “Chappie” James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project. With the anticipated financing proceeds covering the remaining cost of the Project, the $440,000 transfer from the City’s General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund is no longer required. City staff suggest that these funds remain in the City’s General Fund and are designated to the Housing Initiatives Fund specifically for the use in the Pensacola Inner City Community Redevelopment Area in order to fund the Eastside and Westside affordable housing rehabilitation projects.

The financing team consists of Mitch Owens, the City’s Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC and Randy Clement, Esq., with Bryant Miller Olive, the City’s Bond Counsel.

In accordance with Section 163.346, Florida Statutes, a notice regarding the proposed issuance of the Eastside Redevelopment Revenue Bond, Series 2017 has been sent to each taxing authority which levies ad valorem taxes on taxable real property contained within the geographic boundaries of the redevelopment area. Further, a notice of the public meeting has been published in the Pensacola News Journal of such proposed action in accordance with Florida Statutes.

PRIOR ACTION:

January 12, 2017 - City Council approved the transfer of $440,000 from the City’s General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund, specifically for the General Daniel “Chappie” James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

April 10, 2017 - CRA requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing revenues.

July 13, 2017 - City Council approved Ordinance No. 21-17, extending the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund for an additional twenty (20) years.

FUNDING:

FINANCIAL IMPACT:

There is no immediate financial impact as the estimated Tax Increment Revenues are sufficient to meet debt service requirements for the twenty (20) year financing term. However, should the CRA have to draw upon the Local Business Tax for the debt service payment, the CRA will be required to repay such advance plus interest to the City once funds become available. If this occurs, the interest rate shall be calculated using the “WSJ Prime Rate” published by The Wall Street Journal or such other prime rate as published by such other publication as the Chief Financial Officer may reasonably designate.

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET RESOLUTION NO. 2017-11 - APPROPRIATING FUNDING IN CONNECTION WITH THE EASTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 2016

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency adopt Supplemental Budget Resolution No. 2017-11.

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING AND MAKING REVISIONS AND APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 2017; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

SUMMARY:

On April 10, 2017, the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing (TIF) revenues. Eastside projects approved by the CRA at the meeting included the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project, affordable housing rehabilitation and greenway improvements.

Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC has pursued financing options and has recommended SmartBank as the lender. SmartBank has offered twenty (20) year financing for both the CRA's Eastside and Westside Tax Increment Financing Districts at a fixed interest rate of 3.33%. Interest will be paid semi-annually on October 1 and April 1 of each year and principal payments will be paid annually on April 1 commencing on April 1, 2018 and maturing on April 1, 2037. The pledged revenues include Tax Increment Revenues derived from the Eastside Redevelopment Area, and in the event that these revenues are insufficient, the Local Business Tax. The City's bond attorney has incorporated within the Resolution an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA whereby the CRA agrees that in the event that Tax Increment Revenues are insufficient to fully pay the principal and interest on the Series 2017 Bond, and the City advances Local Business Tax for the payment thereof, the CRA shall repay such advance plus interest to the City once funds become available.

Upon approval of the financing by City Council, the Eastside Redevelopment Revenue Bond proceeds will be available to fund the remaining cost for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project. Any remaining proceeds can be used for capital improvements as identified in the Eastside Neighborhood Plan.

Estimated Tax Increment Revenues are sufficient to meet debt service requirements for the twenty (20) year financing term as well as cover operations as currently structured in the fiscal year 2018 budget. However, for the next twenty (20) years, Tax Increment Revenues will be fully committed and additional projects as identified in the Eastside Neighborhood Plan will need to come from revenue growth or other sources.

On January 12, 2017, City Council approved the transfer of $440,000 from the City's General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund, specifically for the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project. With the anticipated financing proceeds covering the remaining cost of the Project, the $440,000 transfer from the City's General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund is no longer required. City staff suggest that these funds remain in the City's General Fund and are designated to the Housing Initiatives Fund specifically for the use in the Pensacola Inner City Community Redevelopment Area in order to fund the Eastside and Westside affordable housing rehabilitation projects.

The financing team consists of Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC and Randy Clement, Esq., with Bryant Miller Olive, the City's Bond Counsel.

In accordance with Section 163.346, Florida Statutes, a notice regarding the proposed issuance of the Eastside Redevelopment Revenue Bond, Series 2017 has been sent to each taxing authority which levies ad valorem taxes on taxable real property contained within the geographic boundaries of the redevelopment area. Further, a notice of the public meeting has been published in the Pensacola News Journal of such proposed action in accordance with Florida Statutes.

PRIOR ACTION:

January 12, 2017 - City Council approved the transfer of $440,000 from the City's General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund, specifically for the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

April 10, 2017 - CRA requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing revenues.

July 13, 2017 - City Council approved Ordinance No. 21-17, extending the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund for an additional twenty (20) years.

FINANCIAL IMPACT:

Adoption of the budget resolution will maintain compliance of the Florida Statutes pertaining to tax increment financing districts. Upon adoption of Supplemental Budget Resolution No. 2017-6 a resolution will be presented to City Council to appropriate the funding for the Community Redevelopment Agency's Eastside Redevelopment Bond, Series 2017 and the Pensacola Inner City Community Redevelopment Area Housing Initiatives Fund.

RESOLUTION NO. 2017-5 - AUTHORIZING THE AMENDED AND RESTATED INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE CITY OF PENSACOLA AND THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency adopt Resolution No. 2017-5.

A RESOLUTION OF THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY OF THE CITY OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, AUTHORIZING AN AMENDED AND RESTATED INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY AND THE CITY OF PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, TO PROVIDE FOR THE FINANCING OF COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT PROJECTS WITHIN THE EASTSIDE REDEVELOPMENT AREA WHICH MAY INCLUDE, BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO, THE CONSTRUCTION AND RETROFITTING OF THE GENERAL DANIEL "CHAPPIE" JAMES, JR. MUSEUM & YOUTH FLIGHT ACADEMY; APPROVING THE FORM OF THE AMENDED AND RESTATED INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT; RATIFYING AND CONFIRMING ALL PRIOR ACTIONS OF THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY ASSOCIATED THEREWITH; AND PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

SUMMARY:

On September 12, 2016 the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) approved and authorized Resolution No. 04-2016 approving and authorizing an interlocal agreement with the City to finance the design, construction and acquisition of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

On September 15, 2016, City Council authorized an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA providing a loan from the City's Insurance Retention Fund of up to $500,000 (the Loan) to the Community Redevelopment Agency's (CRA's) Eastside Tax Increment Financing District for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project. The interlocal agreement provided that the Loan was for an eight (8) year term, at an annual interest rate of three percent (3%) to be repaid from the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund.

On April 10, 2017, the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing (TIF) revenues. Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC has pursued financing options and a twenty (20) year financing option for the CRA's Westside and Eastside Tax Increment Financing Districts will be brought before Council at the August 10, 2017 City Council meeting. Upon approval of the financing by City Council, the proceeds will fund part of the cost for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project freeing up the proceeds from the Loan to be used for other eligible projects as identified in the Urban Infill and Redevelopment Area Plan.

On July 13, the City Council approved Ordinance No. 21-17, amending Ordinance No. 16-05 to provide for a twenty (20) year extension of the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund. The extension allows for the City to take advantage of the maximum number of years (forty (40) years) currently allowed under Section 163.387, Florida Statutes.

The current Loan repayment schedule was based on the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund's original sunset date. With the extension of the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund, the amended and restated interlocal agreement changes the provisions of the Loan from an eight (8) year term to a thirty (30) year term in order to secure the Eastside TIF revenues through the end of the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund. In addition, the repayment schedule of the Loan has been extended so that the first principal payment is due once the anticipated twenty (20) year financing has been paid off in order to make available TIF revenues to pay the principal and interest on the anticipated financing.

The amended and restated interlocal agreement also changes the project description as the anticipated financing proceeds will fund part of the cost for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project freeing up the proceeds from the Loan to be used for other eligible projects as identified in the Urban Infill and Redevelopment Area Plan. The annual interest rate of the Loan (3% per year) remains the same in the amended and restated interlocal agreement.

PRIOR ACTION:

September 12, 2016 - the CRA approved Resolution No. 04-2016 approving and authorizing an interlocal agreement with the City to finance the design, construction and acquisition of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

September 15, 2016 - City Council authorized an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA providing a loan from the City's Insurance Retention Fund of up to $500,000 to the CRA's Eastside Tax Increment Financing District for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

January 12, 2017 - City Council approved the transfer of $440,000 from the City's General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund, specifically for the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & flight Academy Project.

April 10, 2017 - CRA requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing revenues.

July 13, 2017 - City Council approved Ordinance No. 21-17, extending the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund for an additional twenty (20) years.

FUNDING:

N/A

FINANCIAL IMPACT:

The Loan was disbursed on September 30, 2016. Interest only payments will commence on December 31, 2016 and will total $3,750 in year one and approximately $15,000 annually thereafter until December 31, 2037 at which point principal repayment will begin. Principal repayment of the Loan will begin on December 31, 2037 and will conclude on December 31, 2045. Principal and interest payments during that time period will total approximately $65,000. The Loan terms include a 3% annual interest rate. Debt service will be appropriated and paid from revenues of Eastside Tax Increment Financing District Fund.

The Agency will contribute the balance of funding necessary for the Project from its currently available funds or loan proceeds from other financings.

2.2 Funding. The City of Pensacola shall provide a loan of $500,000 at an interest rate of three percent (3%) per annum (the "Loan") to the Agency for purposes of funding a portion of the Project, to be repaid from legally available funds of the Agency which may include but are not limited to tax increment revenues on deposit in the Trust Fund.

interest due thereupon, has been paid in full. To the extent that revenues on deposit in the Trust Fund are insufficient to make a payment to the City on any Loan payment date, the obligation to make such payment shall continue until tax increment revenues or other legally available funds of the Agency, in amounts sufficient to pay any then outstanding Loan payments, shall have actually been paid.

3.3. Prepayment. The Agency may repay the principal balance of the Loan in whole or in part at any time, without penalty. In the event of partial repayment, the City's Chief Financial Officer shall adjust the amortization schedule for the remaining principal balance consistent with the terms and repayment schedule described in Section 3.2. The adjusted repayment schedule shall be maintained on file in the office of the Chief Financial Officer. This Section 3.3 will constitute full authorization for the Chief Financial Officer to make such adjustment, without any further authorization by the City or Agency.

SUBJECT:

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET RESOLUTION NO. 2017-6 - APPROPRIATING FUNDING FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 2017 AND FISCAL YEAR 2018 INTEREST PAYMENT ON THE LOAN FROM THE CITY'S INSURANCE RETENTION FUND TO THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY'S EASTSIDE TAX INCREMENT FINANCING DISTRICT

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Community Redevelopment Agency adopt Supplemental Budget Resolution No. 2017-6.

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING AND MAKING REVISIONS AND APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 2017; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

SUMMARY:

On September 12, 2016 the Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) approved and authorized Resolution No. 04-2016 approving and authorizing an interlocal agreement with the City to finance the design, construction and acquisition of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

On September 15, 2016, City Council authorized an interlocal agreement between the City and the CRA providing a loan from the City's Insurance Retention Fund of up to $500,000 (the Loan) to the Community Redevelopment Agency's (CRA's) Eastside Tax Increment Financing District for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project. The interlocal agreement provided that the Loan was for an eight (8) year term, at an annual interest rate of three percent (3%) to be repaid from the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund.

On April 10, 2017, the CRA requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing (TIF) revenues. Mitch Owens, the City's Financial Advisor with RBC Capital Markets, LLC has pursued financing options and a twenty (20) year financing option for the CRA's Westside and Eastside Tax Increment Financing Districts will be brought before Council at the August 10, 2017 City Council meeting. Upon approval of the financing by City Council, the proceeds will fund part of the cost for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project freeing up the proceeds from the Loan to be used for other eligible projects as identified in the Urban Infill and Redevelopment Area Plan.

On July 13, 2017, the City Council approved Ordinance No. 21-17, amending Ordinance No. 16-05 to provide for a twenty (20) year extension of the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund. The extension allows for the City to take advantage of the maximum number of years (forty (40) years) currently allowed under Section 163.387, Florida Statutes.

The current Loan repayment schedule was based on the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund's original sunset date. With the extension of the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund, the amended and restated interlocal agreement changes the provisions of the Loan from an eight (8) year term to a thirty (30) year term in order to secure the Eastside TIF revenues through the end of the Eastside Neighborhood Redevelopment Trust Fund. In addition, the repayment schedule of the Loan has been extended so that the first principal payment is due once the anticipated twenty (20) year financing has been paid off in order to make available TIF revenues to pay the principal and interest on the anticipated financing.

The amended and restated interlocal agreement also changes the project description as the anticipated financing proceeds will fund part of the cost for the construction of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project freeing up the proceeds from the Loan to be used for other eligible projects as identified in the Urban Infill and Redevelopment Area Plan. The interest rate of the Loan (3% per year) remains the same in the amended and restated interlocal agreement.

PRIOR ACTION:

September 12, 2016 - the CRA approved Resolution No. 04-2016 approving and authorizing an interlocal agreement with the City to finance the design, construction and acquisition of the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & Flight Academy Project.

January 12, 2017 - City Council approved the transfer of $440,000 from the City's General Fund to the Eastside TIF Fund, specifically for the General Daniel "Chappie" James Jr. Museum & flight Academy Project.

April 10, 2017 - CRA requested that the City pursue financing options for eligible Eastside and Westside projects, to be repaid from future Tax Increment Financing revenues.

A MODEL OF GENTRIFICATION: MONITORING COMMUNITY CHANGE IN SELECTED NEIGHBORHOODS OF ST. PETERSBURG, FLORIDA USING THE ANALYTIC HIERARCHY PROCESS

By

Major Department: Urban and Regional Planning

Gentrification has emerged as a major issue in urban and regional planning, particularly in the central cities of large metropolitan areas. As more middle-class and upper-class residents begin to choose city life and reject suburban living, many older neighborhoods, once occupied exclusively by very-low income and low-income residents, are being re-inhabited by more affluent residents. Research on this topic is extensive, and several researchers have come to the same conclusions on the indicators of gentrification and the characteristics of the gentrifier. However, there have been few attempts to develop methods to identify neighborhoods more likely to gentrify and monitor change in neighborhoods toward gentrification, which would allow planners and policy-makers to be proactive in their approach to preventing many of the negative affects of gentrification.

In our study, we developed a model for monitoring gentrification based upon the indicators of gentrification identified in previous studies on the subject. The model uses St. Petersburg, FL as its base region and identifies four neighborhoods as potential areas of gentrification. The model uses statistics derived mostly from census data and converts them into spatial data using geographic information systems, and calculates a gentrification index based upon the indicators it identifies as most important to identifying gentrification.

We found that two of the neighborhoods are indeed more likely to gentrify, and perhaps the process has already begun. Two neighborhoods may be likely to gentrify in the near future; while one may be likely in the distant future. The results of the analysis and gentrification index suggest policy changes and program implementation. Moreover, our study demonstrates that indicators, statistical analysis and the spatial analysis capabilities of geographic information systems can be used to identify complex planning issues and monitor community change related to those issues so that appropriate policy responses can be established.

CHAPTER 1 INTRODUCTION

As urban development returns to formerly distressed neighborhoods, gentrification emerges as a significant planning issue. Much of the discussion and research on this issue relates to affordable housing in general, and the plight of very-low, low and moderate-income families in terms of housing options for these income groups. As more middle- and upper-class households choose urban instead of traditional suburban living, how can cities maintain affordability for lower-income households that do not possess the financial resources to allow them to choose where to live? Planners and researchers continue to struggle with solutions to this problem.

While dealing directly with the affordable housing issue and striving to solve such a complex problem, planners and researchers have learned much about gentrification. They know much about the profiles of these middle and upper-income households that would potentially choose urban, or central city, living over suburban living. They also know the attributes these households look for in urban neighborhoods. In addition, research on gentrification identifies the major indicators of gentrification and establishes a basic understanding of each indicator in determining gentrification. However, with all of this knowledge, very few studies have sought to create a method of synthesizing quantifiable data related to these indicators in order to identify neighborhoods likely to gentrify and to monitor community during, and even prior to, the gentrification process. Our aim was to develop such a method by applying community indicators, the analytic hierarchy process and weighted suitability modeling. Thus, proper steps can be taken by planners and policymakers to mitigate the negative effects of gentrification before the process occurs.

Developing the model involved several steps. First, we reviewed the current body of literature on gentrification to determine its major indicators. We examined information on community indicators and their application to planning as well as methods of spatial analysis and deterministic modeling currently available, yet typically unused in the field of housing planning. Second, we examined background information on St. Petersburg, Florida, the test city, and the five neighborhoods in St. Petersburg to justify the use of this area and to demonstrate implementation of the model. Finally, we discussed the findings related to each indicator; outcomes of the model; overall applicability of the model and recommendations for improvements and future research.

Our study focused on identifying gentrification specifically. We also intended to demonstrate a useful application of spatial analysis and generate discussion and further research into its use to create a more proactive culture in the field of urban and regional planning as opposed to the reactive means of operation that presently characterizes much of professional practice. Geographic modeling can be a powerful tool in planning and policymaking. Our study demonstrated its particular usefulness in housing planning, and how indicators and spatial analysis can be applied to a real planning issue.

CHAPTER 2 LITERATURE REVIEW

Our study assessed three planning issues often considered separately. Specifically associated with housing, these issues are that of gentrification, community indicators and applications of the spatial analysis capabilities of geographic information systems (GIS). Much has been written in planning journals and other related publications about all three subjects. Researchers and practitioners continue to disagree on the true meaning of gentrification. Several articles and books have been written on the effectiveness of indicators in determining a community's economic direction. The application of GIS to community, housing planning research and practice is still in its infancy; however, researchers and practitioners are beginning to look for ways to use this powerful software to examine such planning activities.

Gentrification

Origin and Introduction

According to Atkinson (2003), Ruth Glass originated the term gentrification in the United Kingdom in 1964. The word is derived from “gentry”, referring to the middle and upper class households that are “seen to displace local working-class groups”. According to Glass, this displacement causes a change in the area. This change is the action referred to in the term “gentrification”, or the process of becoming a place for the gentry. This urban phenomenon has been studied and analyzed for forty years, since the inception of the term. Many definitions and ideas as to the causes of gentrification have been presented and debated over time. In this section, these definitions and ideas will be explored and discussed. Throughout the discussion, recurring themes, as well as key points most relevant to our study will be highlighted. This section will conclude with a definition of gentrification framed by the researcher.

Location and Scale

Perhaps a good place to begin a discussion of gentrification would be to define where it occurs and at what scale. According to the literature, gentrification is defined as an urban phenomenon,¹ occurring in large metropolitan areas. Most of the studies on gentrification have been done in large cities, and the process was first observed in London. In the United States, studies have been done on such cities as New York, Boston, Washington, DC, San Francisco, Atlanta, and Cleveland, Ohio. Further, gentrification is typically attributed to central cities. However, there are cases in which older suburbs in large metropolitan areas are experiencing change often associated with gentrification. Examples of this are Vallejo and East Palo Alto, California (Kennedy and Leonard 2001a). In addition, questions have arisen as to whether gentrification is truly limited to large metropolitan areas. Could gentrification also occur in smaller cities? A study done by the City of Gainesville, Florida Community Redevelopment Agency looks at the possibility of gentrification occurring there in an economically distressed community west of central business district known as the Pleasant Street neighborhood. These examples challenge the notion that gentrification is only a central-city issue and perhaps speaks to the future of gentrification studies (ADP, Inc. 2002).²

¹ Some recent studies show that gentrification is also taking place in small towns and rural communities

² As the poor are being pushed out of central cities to “inner ring” suburbs, these older suburban areas are now seen as a possible location for future waves of gentrification.

Gentrification is a process denoted by the middle and upper class reinvesting into the housing stock of poor inner city neighborhoods with high levels of abandonment, disinvestment and vacancy. Although gentrification only occurs in neighborhoods with specific attributes within cities (Gordon, Goudie and Peach 1996; Lang 1982), it is a significant phenomenon that is happening in an ever-increasing number of cities (Wyly and Hammel 1999; Wyly and Hammel 1999). For instance, in the United States the “return to the city” trend, which started in the larger, older metropolitan areas, particularly in the Northeast and Midwest, has begun to filter down to more recently urbanized areas in the South and West. Even with gentrification occurring in more and more locations, these neighborhoods have yet to outstrip the suburbs as the primary residential area for the middle and upper classes. One reason for the process of gentrification lagging behind suburban expansion is that, in most cases, neighborhoods prone to gentrification are not large enough to meet all the housing needs of a metropolitan area’s growing middle and upper classes. Also, these areas tend to be attractive to a certain subset of the middle and upper class population based on such attributes as neighborhood location, urban character and architectural style.

Who and Why

Now that we know where gentrification occurs, what are the characteristics of “gentrifiers” and why do they choose to live where they do? Although there appears to be a general consensus on what the characteristics of gentrifiers are, there are some differing ideas on why gentrification occurs, and why in these areas of urban decay. Following a description of gentrifiers, this section will broadly discuss why gentrification occurs and specifically why in these urban neighborhoods.

Since gentrification generally occurs in cities, in order to understand gentrifiers, one should understand why people like city living. City dwellers “like the privacy... specialization, and the hundreds of one-of-a-kind shops...the excitement...the heterogeneity, the contrasts, the mixture of odd people.” (Land, Hughes, Danielsen 1997, p. 437). However, most people identify city dwellers as less affluent or poor. In opposition to that perception, gentrifiers, also part of this city-dwelling population, are generally moderate to upper income households normally associated with suburban communities. In “What Makes Gentrification ‘Gentrification’?”, Redfern describes the gentrifier as being “‘other’ to the suburbanizing middle class.” (Redfern 2003, p.2355) What makes the gentrifier different from their suburban as well as their urban counterparts?

First, unlike other city dwellers, such as the inhabitants of public housing complexes and working class households who cannot afford a house in the suburbs, gentrifiers can choose where they live. Second, gentrifiers are often highly educated professionals. Third, gentrifiers tend to be untraditional households. Gordon, Goudie and Peach (1996) identify gentrifiers as often being young, unmarried and childless as opposed to the typical two-parent, two-child household found in the suburbs or working class neighborhoods for that matter. Another population of gentrifiers includes empty nesters, those older couples or individuals who no longer have children living in the house with them.

Other groups associated with gentrification are artists and gay and lesbian households. Often called “urban pioneers”, these are usually the first groups to move into a deteriorating area, rehabilitate the housing, and make the area attractive again (Solnit and Schwartzberg 2000; Wyly and Hammel 1999). What's interesting is that these groups often become the victims of what is called a "second gentrification" where these "urban pioneers" having proven the worth of a neighborhood, are subsequently displaced by investors and more affluent households. (Solnit and Schwartzberg 2000; Wyly and Hammel 1999)

Land, Hughes and Danielsen (1997) describe potential city dwellers, referred to in our study as gentrifiers, in the context of the environments from which they originate. They describe two different types of gentrifiers: "suburban urbanites" and "urban suburbanites". These descriptions provide more insight into what gentrifiers seek in a neighborhood based on the urban context of the metropolitan area as a whole, and will thus help determine a neighborhood's potential for gentrification.

The "suburban urbanite" is defined as a suburban resident with a similar lifestyle to a central-city resident. Suburban urbanites are found in the inner suburbs of Northeastern and Midwestern cities. Cities in these regions tend to be smaller in land area, denser, and surrounded by high-density suburbs that have "central-city-type neighborhoods." (Land, Hughes, Danielsen 1997, p.441). Because they already live in neighborhoods that have similar characteristics of central city neighborhoods, they are more likely to choose central city living.

In contrast, "urban suburbanite" would most likely be found in the suburbs of Sunbelt cities. These cities tend to be larger in land area with less dense urban cores as well as suburban-style subdivisions within the central city. These individuals are looking for areas that offer all of the advantages of urban living with all of the comforts of the suburbs. Therefore, in different urban contexts, gentrifiers seek different characteristics. The presence of these characteristics in a neighborhood affects its gentrification potential.

The distinction between “suburban urbanite” and “urban suburbanite” is an interesting and significant one that bears importance in this particular study. The neighborhoods in our study are located in St. Petersburg, Florida. Although it is not an extremely expansive city geographically, its development pattern fits the Sunbelt City mode, with its less dense urban core and suburban-style subdivisions within its city limits. Therefore, gentrifiers in St. Petersburg would probably have the qualities of the “urban suburbanite”.

In addition to the socioeconomic status of the gentrifier, another, perhaps more controversial attribute of the gentrifier is addressed in the literature – race. Suburban expansion is associated with the term “white flight”, which refers to the exit of the white population from the central city to surrounding suburban communities. Gentrification counters this trend, with white residents returning to the city, sometimes going right back to the same communities they fled decades past. Still, gentrifiers are not necessarily white. For example, in certain areas of Atlanta affluent blacks are returning to the city (Kennedy and Leonard 2001a). Therefore, although “gentrifier” usually has a clearly white racial identity, sometimes the term includes members of minority races.

Gentrification occurs in regions where the housing market is tight (Kennedy and Leonard 2001a, 2001b; Lang 1982). When new housing demand outpaces the production of new housing, the price of housing will escalate. Thus, investment in the existing housing stock becomes an option considered by those with means (Nelson 1988, p. 15). Typically, areas chosen for investment have the greatest opportunity for reinvestment due to high levels of abandonment, disinvestment and vacancy. However, these attributes don't always guarantee a high potential for gentrification. Gentrifiers also choose areas characterized by their architectural style and high historic value of the homes as well as location near cultural amenities and/or the traditional central business district employment center (Lang 1982; Nelson 1988; Redfern 2001).

Because these neighborhoods are so undesirable at the time of initial investment, the housing is cheap. In fact, Nelson (1988) argues that cheaper housing and the perceived profitability is more important than being fashionable. The reality of the situation most likely involves affordability, architectural style and profit.

Thus, a gentrifier is a middle or upper class, nontraditional household that prefers urban living. Gentrifiers are usually affluent whites, although this is not always the case. Further, gentrification is the result of a tightening housing market, making cheap inner city housing appear more desirable due to its affordability, profitability, location and style.

Displacement

One major issue of debate regarding what defines gentrification involves the issue of displacement. As more is invested in an area and property values rise, the poor and working class households that comprise the original residential population of a neighborhood will no longer be able to afford to stay there, resulting in displacement. While such displacement may be of economic benefit to cities overall as the rising property values increase the tax base (Kennedy and Leonard 2001a, 2001b), many view it as an unavoidable, socially detrimental consequence that overburdens the original residents, particularly renters in the neighborhood (Lang 1982, LaPeter 2004).³

Many definitions and studies of gentrification require displacement to occur in order for an area to be declared gentrified (Kennedy and Leonard 2001a, 2001b). However, Wyly and Hammel (1999) speak of “urban pioneers”, the initial investors, as possibly displacing the original residents and oftentimes displaced by a second group of gentrifiers. Lang (1982) also uses the word often to describe displacement in the gentrification process (Lang 1982, p.6). Freeman and Braconi’s (2003) study of New York found that significant displacement does not have to occur for gentrification to take place. For instance, if the abandonment and vacancy rate is extremely high, then the likelihood of displacement is very low. Similarly, a study done by the City of Gainesville, Florida for its Pleasant Street neighborhood found that abandonment and vacancy were high enough for reinvestment to occur without large numbers of residents being displaced (ADP, Inc. 2002).

Researcher’s Definition

Based upon the various characterizations of gentrification explored in previous studies and their applicability to our study, we offer the following definition for gentrification:

Gentrification is the process by which the socioeconomic status of a neighborhood populated mostly by lower-income households is substantially elevated by renewed interests and investments by higher-income households, including homebuyers, renters and commercial interests from outside the neighborhood so as to change the overall character of the neighborhood, and usually results in widespread displacement of the lower-income residents already living in the neighborhood as well as the businesses they support.

This definition includes the social as well as economic implications of gentrification. It also addresses both the residential and commercial aspects of gentrification. Although our study and previous studies on the subject tend to focus on the residential, the commercial component of gentrification is worth mentioning in any definition or discussion.

Indicators

Often used in community planning and economic development planning, community indicators evaluate social and economic change in an area. Different types of indicators function on different scales. Gentrification definitely has economic ramifications, thus certain types of indicators are typically present when it is occurring or likely to occur in a given area. This section defines indicators and outlines those relevant to gentrification. These specific indicators will become the basis of the gentrification model.

Definition and Applications

Phillips (2003) defines indicators as “measurements that provide information about past and current trends to assist planners and community leaders in making decisions that effect outcomes” (p.1). These measurements quantify the social, environmental and economic factors that work together to create change in a community or region. She describes them as “gauges” that document how much progress is being made toward reaching a certain goal or to show what a community or region is likely to become according to data gathered on the indicators. According to Hart (2003) and Oleari (2000), combining several indicators together to create a “measuring system”, or model, can “provide (useful) information about past trends, current realities and future direction in order to aid decision making” (quoted in Phillips 2003, p.2).

Two basic types of indicators are defined in the literature. They are system (descriptive) indicators and performance indicators. System indicators condense individual measurements that describe multiple characteristics of a specific system in order to communicate the most pertinent information to decision-makers (Phillips, 2003; Hardi et al. 1997). System indicators work best with painting a picture of the current state of a system and are used to guide policy writing. Performance indicators are similar to system indicators in that they are both descriptive. However, performance indicators are also “prescriptive”. This type of indicator has a goal, reference value or target attached to it and measures how much progress is being made toward reaching that goal or target. Performance indicators are good for policy or program evaluation; therefore, these indicators can guide policy or program changes. Our study accurately describes the current situation in a neighborhood and assesses where the neighborhood is headed if the current trends continue, which will guide decision-making and policy writing. Therefore, performance indicators are most appropriate for our study.

Indicator studies comprise three basic categories: economic, environmental and social. Indicators are most often employed in economic studies, which is what our study is. Of course, environmental studies assess ecosystems. An example of a social indicator study is the School Readiness Pilot Study for a Social Infrastructure Network completed by the Hillsborough County Planning Commission in 2003. This study measured several indicators derived from research in the field of education, and formulated a model that determines the likelihood of school readiness in neighborhoods throughout Hillsborough County, Florida. Although it is a social study, it provides a helpful example of how to use indicators in building a model for monitoring a community.

Another important aspect of indicators is their scale. Phillips (2003) defines four levels of indicators in her publication. They are national and multinational, regional, local, and neighborhood indicators. National and multinational indicators measure trends on a national or international level. Regional indicators may exist on many different levels, as regions are defined in different ways. A region could be one state or a large section of a state, encompassing many different cities, towns and metropolitan areas. It could be a group of states, or it could be just one metropolitan area. Therefore, the scope of regional indicators is defined based on how the region is defined. Local indicators deal with specific municipalities. However, they assess the municipality holistically. Just like regional indicators, local indicators have varying scopes. They could be for one small town, a large city or an entire county. Neighborhood indicators look at the conditions in individual neighborhoods within cities or towns. For our study, regional to local comparisons as well as neighborhood-specific indicators will be used to develop the model.⁴

In order to build a model that produces meaningful results, the proper indicators must be used. Phillips (2003) lists several criteria for the successful selection of indicators. Those criteria are: validity, relevance, consistency and reliability, measurability, clarity, comprehensiveness, cost-effectiveness, comparability and attractiveness to the media. Validity involves insuring the indicator is based on accurate data. Relevance is making sure the indicator relates directly to the issue at hand.

⁴ More specifics on the indicators and their justifications will be given in the Methodology chapter of this thesis.

Consistency and reliability relate to the ability to collect the same quality of data over a period of time. Measurability addresses the ability of the indicator data to be collected directly from the neighborhood, locality, region or nation(s) being studied.⁵ Clarity concerns how well the indicator is understood. Comprehensiveness measures the ability of one indicator to cover a wide range of issues yet retain the focus of the overall model. Cost-effectiveness reflects how much money (or time) must be put into collecting the data. Comparability involves how effectively the indicators can be used in different communities. Attractiveness to the media deals with how well the indicators and model are accepted by the press.⁶

Although the aforementioned criteria are important in selecting indicators for monitoring community change, Phillips (2003) states that the true test of the success of an indicator or a model is whether or not the data collected in relation to that indicator or the results of the model prompt government officials to take action. However, out of all the criteria previously discussed, perhaps the most emphasis should be placed on the validity or accuracy of the data. In order for proper action to take place, the data associated with the indicators must be accurate. Indicators and models can then produce meaningful information that decision-makers can work with to affect proper change. Producing results that support proper shifts in policies and programs is the aim of our study.

⁶ In this case, the "press" would be journals and other respected publications.

The use of indicators has a strong foundation in economic development planning and research. Most applications have targeted sustainable development, which is defined as development that seeks to meet the needs of the present without compromising the needs of the future. Most indicator projects evaluate community progress. However, indicators research presents very little on how individual indicators can be evaluated together to monitor community change. Our study creates a model for monitoring gentrification that involves the use of several indicators evaluated together.

Gentrification Indicators

The literature describes several indicators of the likelihood of gentrification. Some are regional; others are local or relevant at the neighborhood level. Further, gentrification is “notoriously difficult to measure and the results (of the model) are sensitive to the indicators chosen”, the time periods over which the indicators are measured and how neighborhoods are defined (Wyly and Hammel 1999, p. 726).

Kennedy and Leonard (2001a) identify rapid job creation, a regional indicator, as the most significant indicator of potential gentrification. Rapid job creation provides more opportunity for those already living in the region as well as attracts new residents. Second on the list comes the supply of housing units in relation to demand. As more residents move to an area and current residents earn higher incomes, the demand for housing increases. If the current supply of housing cannot meet the demand, then housing prices will increase to curb demand. Thus, cheaper inner city housing becomes a viable alternative to more expensive, suburban housing. Other regional or local indicators include increased commute times, growth in certain population groups and nontraditional households and public investments. At the neighborhood level, the historic value of the housing stock, level of abandonment and percentage of owner-occupied housing are all indicators. For our study, these indicators and several others were chosen based on the literature. They will be identified and explained in the Methodology chapter of this paper.

Thresholds

Galster, Quercia and Cortes (2003) define “threshold” as the critical value of an indicator that triggers more rapid change. Another way to view a threshold is the point when change is completely apparent and cannot be easily stopped or reversed.

Knowledge of the correct indicators is important to monitoring community change. Just as important is knowledge of the threshold related to each indicator. Thresholds are not arbitrary values. Accuracy in determining the threshold value plays a huge role in determining the success or failure of a model for monitoring change.

Quercia and Galster (1997) describe four aspects of thresholds: geographic scale, absolute or relative impacts, time of impacts and pattern of relationship. Geographic scale is the area over which each variable is measured, and the corresponding threshold applies at that geographic scale. For instance, the threshold for a regional indicator should apply in the same manner throughout the region; whereas, the threshold for a local indicator will only apply to that specific locality. Absolute or relative impacts reflect, respectively, thresholds measured by absolute numbers or by percentages. For example, does the growth in the number of people from the ages of twenty-five through thirty-four have to increase by ten thousand in order to indicate change, or does it have to increase by ten percent? Time of impact addresses whether change has to continue for a certain period of time before rapid change occurs. For instance, does job growth have to continue for a certain number of years before there is a surge of interest in companies wanting to add jobs to an area? Finally, observing a pattern of relationship helps determine how the threshold of each indicator relates to those of other variables. For instance, how does job growth relate to population growth? Do job growth and population growth increase at the same rate all the time? Or, is there some point when jobs are increasing at such a rate as to cause an exponential increase in population from in migration? Is this job growth rate related to a rapid decrease in housing vacancy in the same manner as it relates to population growth? Data on each indicator should be tested against all other variables to determine the best value for each threshold.

Several articles have been written on thresholds that relate to the study of gentrification Quercia and Galster (1997) determine that there is a threshold of middle-class households that must be reached before significant benefits, such as increased property values and retail demand. Downs (2002), Peng and Wheaton (1994) study the effects of restrictive land supply on housing prices, finding the point at which the amount of developable land available begins to effect housing price; however, housing output remains fairly constant. Chapple et al. (2004) study the effects of job growth on housing prices, finding that rapid job growth (particularly in certain industries) begins to effect housing prices over a certain period of time in certain locations depending on the structure of the metropolitan area.⁷ The last example of threshold-related literature is Goodman and Thibodeau (1995) who found that the relationship between the age of housing units and price is a nonlinear relationship. All of these examples demonstrate that thresholds exist, they are very specific, they vary by indicator, and they possibly vary by location. Therefore, gentrification can be measured by the value of each indicator in relation to its threshold.

⁷ Growth in industries with the potential for rapid expansion, such as technology-based industries, could indicate the potential for a high rate of job creation over a short period of time in a region, creating new wealth and drawing new residents at a rapid pace. This results in a tightening housing market, leading to gentrification.

Geographic Information Systems (GIS)

Introduction

Due to its spatial applications and analysis capabilities, a geographical information system (GIS) is a critical component of our study. The following paragraphs define what GIS is, examine the functions of GIS, and review how GIS has and can be used in real estate research. Some of this information is similar to the material presented on indicators. These overlaps will also be highlighted.

Definition

Luc Anselin (1998) defines GIS as “a powerful set of tools for collecting, storing retrieving at will, transforming and displaying spatial data from the real world for a particular set of purposes” (p. 116). Most people associate GIS with specific software packages. Generally, GIS synthesizes value information with locational and topological information into a searchable database. Value information, or attributes, include the price or size of a housing unit. Locational and topological information include the address or census block where the unit is located.

Functions and Applications

Anselin (1998) also outlines the four major functions of GIS: input, storage, output and analysis. Of the four functions, analysis, or spatial analysis, is the focus of our study. Spatial analysis has four sub-functions. They are selection, manipulation, exploration and confirmation. Selection involves obtaining information relating to certain variables specific to a certain location from a spatial database. Data manipulation involves the creation of spatial data and is done through attribute values (averaging, summation), spatial information (coordinates) and data integration (combination of attribute values and spatial information).

The next two capacities of spatial analysis are exploration and confirmation. These two are considered the heart of spatial analysis. Exploration, or exploratory spatial data analysis (ESDA) is described as being a body of techniques used to “describe and visualize spatial distributions”, find patterns of association (spatial clustering), identify extremely unique observations (outliers) and “suggest different spatial regimes or other forms of spatial instability (nonstationarity)” (Anselin, 1998 p. 120). ESDA identifies two classifications of indicators of spatial association. They are global and local. Most of the recent research and literature has focused on the use of local indicators of spatial association (LISA). These indicators can detect patterns of association as well as test a specific pattern’s uniformity. LISAs are well suited for map visualization, and overlaying LISA maps of different variables is very helpful in deciding variables that should be used in models. For these reasons, our study focuses on LISAs – how they illustrate patterns and are used to build models.

Confirmation, or confirmatory spatial data analysis is described as “model-driven.” It involves four steps: model specification, estimation, diagnostics and prediction. These four steps imply an iterative process in which models are tested until the best one is found. As mentioned in the previous section on indicators, studies such as this one should result in recommendations for government action based on the results. Therefore, it is important to find the best model for studying and producing the most meaningful results for the issue at hand. Also, in the discussion on confirmatory spatial analysis, Anselin (1998) addresses regression models and their usefulness in predicting values. One previous study uses a regression model to predict rental rates in several markets and geographically illustrate their results for Atlanta and Boston. This model incorporates the physical attributes of apartments and their relation to price based upon previous research. The model illustrates geographically how rents are likely to vary in relation to the average rent based on location and demonstrates how variables, or indicators, can be analyzed using GIS to graphically display a neighborhood reality.

The aforementioned study testifies to the effectiveness of regression analysis, demonstrating how the interaction of variables can be assessed to accurately display and monitor an issue. Our study uses a deterministic model involving the pairwise comparison method to determine the weight of each variable associated with gentrification. This method, developed by Saaty in 1980, involves comparing each variable to the other variables individually, creating a ratio matrix that outputs the relative weights of each variable. This method was chosen based on the knowledge of the general effects of each indicator on the likelihood of gentrification expressed in the literature as well as research as well as its compatibility with the spatial analysis functions of GIS.

The application of GIS, and its spatial analysis capabilities, to housing research has been very minimal. According to Can (1998) this lack of research is due to ignorance of available tools; difficulty in obtaining the updated, detailed and accurate information required for GIS-based analysis; and the relatively recent availability of “special processing requirements” for housing research. These reasons are valid, particularly the availability of data to make using GIS worthwhile and meaningful. Most of the specific data collected on housing is done through the census. Some data is estimated on a yearly basis, but these estimations are generally not done at the census block level (Can 1998, p. 69). However, some information not available in its most recent version may be available through other non-traditional sources such as the local Property Appraiser or Chamber of Commerce. In fact, it is possible to get more specific information from a source such as the Property Appraiser down to the parcel as opposed to census data, which only measures down to census tract for certain types of data. One important issue to consider when gathering information from a variety of sources is consistency. While accuracy is very important, ensuring that all data for all variables relates to the same year and is measured at the same geographic level is equally important when using GIS to conduct research and build models.

Despite the challenges, GIS is an appropriate tool for housing research. The visualization capacity of GIS allows researchers to see patterns and trends that might not be evident just by examining tables and graphs (Ghose and Huxold, 2004, p. 19). Also, its analysis capabilities allow for the examination of several forces and indicators at one time to determine their effect and guide policy action.

Summary

The goal of this review of the literature was to establish a working definition of gentrification and examine indicator studies and GIS tools to show their application to the study of gentrification and the creation of a model for monitoring gentrification. The review discussed the major issues and debates in the study of gentrification, resulting in a definition of gentrification for use in our study. Next a discussion of indicators outlined how they have been used (particularly in economic development planning) and how they can be applied to the study of housing and model building. Finally, an overview of GIS and its application to housing research continued to build on themes offered in the discussion on indicators as well as demonstrated the practicality of GIS in relation to housing research and community monitoring. In all of these discussions, important points were highlighted and analyzed in their relation to our study. The next two chapters describe the specific geographic area used for our study and the specific details of our model.

CHAPTER 3 STUDY AREA

Our study focuses on St. Petersburg, Florida as the test region due to its growing population, rapid job growth, geographic constraints, dwindling availability of large developable parcels, and growing affluence. With a population of nearly 250,000 residents, St. Petersburg ranks as the fourth largest city in the state of Florida, and functions as one of the urban centers in the Tampa Bay metropolitan area – the state’s second largest metropolitan statistical area and one of its fastest growing. St. Petersburg is located in Pinellas County, a densely populated, nearly built-out county along the west coast of Florida. The county itself is a large peninsula, surrounded on three sides by water. St. Petersburg, at the southern end of the county, is also surrounded by water on three sides. Also like the county, St. Petersburg is nearing build-out in terms of undeveloped land. Due to its geography, no outward expansion can take place, including typical large-scale, suburban-style developments that characterize current development in much of the rest of Florida. Moreover, the city is experiencing significant job growth, particularly in high-paying financial services and technological-oriented jobs, attracting thousands of new residents in recent years. Therefore, as these trends continue, we contend some St. Petersburg neighborhoods are bound to experience gentrification.

Our study identifies four neighborhoods as probable targets for gentrification: Bartlett Park, Old Southeast, Roser Park, and Crescent Lake. Although each neighborhood is unique, they all share aspects that attract gentrifiers. All are located immediately adjacent or within 1.5 miles from the central business district. All are among the oldest neighborhoods in the city. Roser Park, Old Southeast, and a portion of Crescent Lake called Round Lake are designated historic districts on the national level, local level or both.

One neighborhood, Uptown, has been identified as the control neighborhood. This neighborhood features many of the same characteristics of the four neighborhoods identified as gentrification targets. It is a historic district and sits directly adjacent to St. Petersburg's central business district. However, it does not receive the same attention from officials, planners, residents and the press as the other neighborhoods in terms of the characteristics of and potential for gentrification. Therefore, our study asserts that change occurring in Uptown will most accurately reflect the overall change taking place in the city of St. Petersburg.

The national trend of central city redevelopment has not missed St. Petersburg. In fact, St. Petersburg's central business district has been recognized several times as an example of successful downtown redevelopment. As the central business district generates more activity, we hypothesize that the identified four surrounding neighborhoods will begin to feel the effects of eminent gentrification. The model developed for our study will prove or disprove the correctness of that hypothesis.

CHAPTER 4 METHODOLOGY

Gentrification literature describes the various measurable indicators of gentrification. It also describes the difficulty in reversing the negative effects of gentrification, most notably the displacement of residents. Since the indicators are known, gentrification must be measurable. However, no attempts to quantify these indicators and relate all of them empirically to some index of the likelihood of gentrification occurring in a neighborhood have been found in previous studies. This chapter describes the method created for monitoring gentrification in our study, determines specific indicators outlined in the gentrification literature using common statistical methods and GIS technology, and tests the model on the five neighborhoods described in the previous section.

Explanation of Model

Building the model for monitoring gentrification involved four basic steps, each of which contained smaller steps. The first basic step was the identification of the indicators of gentrification to be used in the model. The second basic step involved collecting the appropriate data for those indicators, converting that data into usable statistics, and mapping those statistics for each indicator using GIS independently. The third step involved determining relationships between the indicators and the threshold values for each indicator. The fourth and final step established an equation for a gentrification index based on the statistics and thresholds to determine the likelihood of gentrification occurring in the study area and mapped the results of the equation using GIS.

Identifying the Indicators

This first step in developing the model identified the appropriate indicators. Perhaps the most important step in the process, choosing the right indicators to use, greatly determined the effectiveness of the model. Our study considers sixteen indicators based upon gentrification literature and the researcher's definition of gentrification. The majority of the indicators chosen use census data and other data readily available to researchers, demonstrating the accessibility of the model for practicing planners.

We divided the indicators into two groups: regional to neighborhood comparisons and neighborhood-specific indicators. Regional to neighborhood comparisons describe conditions that exist or changes in regional demographics that should reflect on all areas of the metropolitan region. For instance, if area median income (AMI) increased by a large percentage for the region, one expects to find a large increase in the AMI of each neighborhood in the region. Neighborhood-specific indicators describe conditions and qualities specific to a particular neighborhood. A neighborhood's location would classify as a neighborhood-specific indicator. We chose twelve regional to neighborhood comparison indicators and four neighborhood-specific indicators (Tables 4-1 and 4-2).

Table 4-1: Regional to neighborhood comparison indicators

Name	Description	Justification
Change in Professional Employment	The change in the number of people working jobs requiring post-secondary education (AA, AS, BA, BS, MA, MS, Ph. D., technical certificate) as a percentage of overall employment	These tend to be higher-wage jobs. An increase in the number of higher-paid workers increases area median income (AMI), driving up housing costs.

Name	Description	Justification
Change in Population	The change in the total population	A rapid population increase usually relates to a growing job market, one of the leading indicators of gentrification.
Change in Housing Units	The change in the total number of housing units	A slow growth in the number of housing units with respect to population and job growth leads to rising housing costs.
Change in college-educated population	The change in the percentage of the population that is college-educated	One of the characteristics of a likely gentrifier; tend to have higher incomes and affinity for city amenities.
Change in Age Cohort 25-34	The change in the percentage of the population in this age range	This cohort relates to one of the characteristics of a likely gentrifier (high-wage, young, single or married w/ no children).
Change in Age Cohort 55-65	The change in the percentage of the population in this age range	This cohort relates to one of the characteristics of a likely gentrifier (empty-nester; active lifestyle).
Change in area median income (AMI)	The percentage change in AMI	Growing AMI usually relates to a growing job base, increased educational level of residents, and relates to an increase in housing costs.
Change in Median Owner-Occupied Unit Value	The percentage change in the value of owner-occupied single-family residential units attached as well as detached.	Rising housing costs signifies increase demand for housing, a leading indicator of gentrification.
Change in Average Commute Times	The number of minutes commute times have increased/decreased over time	One main reason residents are choosing to move back to central cities relates to increased commute times.
% Housing units occupied	The change in the percentage of housing units that are occupied by either renters or their owners	Higher occupancy in combination with high demand raises housing prices.

% Owner-occupied units	The change in the percentage of housing units actually occupied by their owners	Rising homeownership tends to reflect a greater amount of income within households as well as growing neighborhood stability – an attractive quality.
Unit Size	The number of rooms in a housing unit	Larger homes tend to attract higher-incomes. Therefore larger homes in older areas are likely to attract gentrifiers.

Name	Description	Justification
% Housing Built Pre-1950	The percentage of all the housing units built prior to 1950	The historical value of the houses is part of the allure of inner-city neighborhoods to gentrifiers.
Proximity to Central Business District (CBD)	The number of miles the census tract is from those tracts making up the CBD	Part of the attraction is the closeness to CBD, where jobs, culture and entertainment are located.
Proximity to Major Transportation Corridors (Interstate Highways)	If interstates run through city, the number of miles to the nearest interchange; if not, the number of miles to the nearest major corridor	Easy access to corridors leading to CBD as well as suburban markets one of the important factors to gentrifiers.
Historical Designations	Number of historic structures or if entire tract is within historic district	Designations curtail demolition, encouraging renovation; historic value attractive to gentrifiers.

Data Collection

Most of the data collected comes from the United States Bureau of the Census (Census). However, some data was collected from other sources.

In order to gauge change and show a clear trend, data collection encompassed a 20-year period (three decennial censuses) for each indicator whose source is the Census (2000, 1990 and 1980). Data gathered on other indicators also spanned the same twenty-year timeframe where available. If data was available only over a shorter time period, data collection began with the earliest year available. Collecting data in this manner kept the intervals the same to establish trends over the same number of years as the indicators based on the Census. In addition to consistency in time intervals, the values must also be geographically consistent. Thus, data not available from the Census was appropriately scaled or proportioned to match the census tracts used for the neighborhoods analyzed in our study.

We defined the “region” as the city where the neighborhoods are located – St. Petersburg, Florida. The “neighborhood” refers to each of the five neighborhoods analyzed in our study area separately. The boundaries of each neighborhood matched up almost perfectly with the boundaries of their respective census tracts (Figures B-1 and B-2).

Census data generally comes as a simple count (integer) or where appropriate, as a dollar amount. However, in this research, percentage change bears more relevance. For instance, the median income in the city could increase by more absolute dollars than a neighborhood, but the neighborhood could show a higher percentage increase, reflecting a greater rate of change. Therefore, the counts for each regional to neighborhood comparison indicator were transformed into a percentage change value using the following formula:

$$\text{Percent Change} = [(X - Y)/Y] * 100$$

where

X = Value from 2000 Census or most recent available, and

Y = Value from 1980 Census

For neighborhood-specific indicators, no rate of change was measured between 1980 and 2000, as they reflect neighborhood characteristics at their present state based on the 2000 census, demonstrating potential based on current conditions.

Most of the indicators are dynamic and measured by percentage change. However two indicators describe static conditions and carry number measurements -- distance to central business district and distance to major transportation corridors. It is quite possible for distance to major transportation corridors to change due to construction of new corridors.¹ Yet, we determined that no new transportation corridors affecting these neighborhoods were constructed during the study period. Also, the locations of the traditional central business district (downtown) and the location of each neighborhood remain stationary. For these reasons, a number value is the appropriate measure for these indicators.

Each indicator is then mapped using ArcGIS² according to the percentage or integer value associated with each. First, the GIS shape files for the appropriate city boundary and the census tracts are downloaded from the Florida Geographic Data Library³ into GIS creating the base map. Then the attribute table for the census tract layer was edited to include the fields for the values relating to each indicator. Next, the values in each of these fields were converted from “vector” attributes to “raster” attributes.⁴ These values

¹ If new major transportation corridors are constructed, then the distance from a study area to a major transportation corridor may change; thus making this a dynamic variable that may be more appropriately measured by percentage change.

² ArcGIS is a GIS software package from ESRI most often used by planners, developers and researchers are then reclassified using the binary system of 0 and 1 according to their value in relation to the regional percentages.⁵ The reclassification assigned a value of 0 to all values less than the regional percentage, and assigned a value of 1 to all values greater than the regional percentage in most cases. In a few instances, the reclassification was based on the opposite relationship. For example, a reclassification value of 1 was assigned to tracts with a change in vacancy rates less than the regional rate. The reclassified values were converted to individual shape files and added to the base map as separate layers. The purpose of doing this was to spatially and visually reinforce the change occurring in the study area in relation to each indicator.

³ The Florida Geographic Data Library is an electronic resource providing free access to GIS shape files for all counties in the State of Florida and their corresponding attribute tables and metadata files.

Developing the Equation

The equation used to analyze the five neighborhoods utilizes deterministic neighborhood value analysis in combination with weighted suitability analysis to determine a gentrification index. The following sections outline this process

Deterministic Neighborhood Value Analysis

Since monitoring gentrification engages several indicators, the study used deterministic neighborhood value analysis to weight the values of several variables to get one final index for gentrification. Deterministic neighborhood value analysis uses the following equation:

$$I = C_1X_1 + C_2X_2 + C_3X_3 + \dots + C_nX_n$$

where

I = index

C₁ = weight of the first indicator X₁

C₂ = weight of the second indicator X₂

⁵ Since the current body of literature establishes no generic thresholds for these gentrification indicators, the most appropriate measures of change are the regional percentages.

C_3 = weight of the third indicator X_3

C_n = weight of the nth indicator X_n

The weights for each value were determined using the pairwise comparison method established by Saaty in 1980 described in the literature review.⁶ This method determines the weight of variables in decision-making using the comparison matrix (Table 4-5), testing each variable against all other variables individually:

Table 4-5: Pairwise comparison matrix

	Variable X_1	Variable X_2	Variable X_3	...	Variable X_n
Variable X_1	1	$X_2:X_1$	$X_3:X_1$...	$X_n:X_1$
Variable X_2	$X_1:X_2$	1	$X_3:X_2$...	$X_n:X_2$
Variable X_3	$X_1:X_3$	$X_2:X_3$	1	...	$X_n:X_3$

.	.	.	.	“	.
Variable X_n	$X_1:X_n$	$X_2:X_n$	$X_3:X_n$...: X_n	1

Comparisons were done on a scale of 1 to 9 using the following descriptions:

- 1 = equally important
- 2 = slightly more important
- 3 = somewhat more important
- 4 = moderately more important
- 5 = more important
- 6 = much more important
- 7 = significantly more important
- 8 = very much more important
- 9 = extremely more important

When comparing variables to themselves, the value always equals one. If the comparison of variable X_2 to X_1 yields one value, then the comparison of X_1 to X_2 yields

⁶ An alternative to the researcher developing the weights would be to survey local professional planners with housing expertise as well as area residents using the same criteria and develop the weights through a method of consensus building – an iterative process by which all those involved would come to an agreement on the value of each indicator to the whole equation.

the reciprocal value. For example, if variable X_2 is significantly more important than X_1 (value = 7), then variable X_1 is significantly less important than X_2 (value = $1/7$).

Table 4-6: Pairwise comparison matrix value pattern

	Variable X_1	Variable X_2	Variable X_3	...	Variable X_n
Variable X_1	1	$1/X_1:X_2$	$1/X_3:X_1$...	$1/X_1:X_n$
Variable X_2	$X_1:X_2$	1	$1/X_2:X_3$...	$1/X_2:X_n$
Variable X_3	$X_1:X_3$	$X_2:X_3$	1	...	$1/X_3:X_n$

.	.	.	.	“	.
Variable X_n	$X_1:X_n$	$X_2:X_n$	$X_3:X_n$	$...:X_n$	1

These comparison values were then normalized by the following equation:

$$\text{Normalized Value} = \text{Comparison Value} * (1 / \text{Total of all values in column}).$$

Then these normalized values were summed up by column. This total became the weight, or coefficient C, assigned to each indicator.

After establishing the C values for each indicator, the deterministic neighborhood value analysis equation uses reclassified values for each indicator described in the previous section as X values to measure their total effect. For each neighborhood, the study analyzed the regional to neighborhood comparisons and neighborhood-specific indicators separately, providing a total for both to be used later in the weighted suitability analysis. Although the study analyzed the five neighborhoods separately, it used the same equations for each, employing the same C values. Using the same equation demonstrates the regional applicability of this analysis. The uniqueness of the totals for a neighborhood would come from its X values.

Weighted Suitability Model

The weighted suitability model is a method of spatial analysis often used in real estate development to determine the suitability of a site for a specific type of development targeting a specific demographic. It assigns weights to multiple groups of variables in the same manner that multivariate regression applies weights to individual variables. Since our study uses two categories of indicators, the weighted suitability model effectively illustrates the relationship between the two sets of indicators and their effect on the overall decision-making of potential gentrifiers.

The weighted suitability model is used to establish the equation for the final index of the likelihood of gentrification, G . For our study, regional to neighborhood comparison indicators Y_{Regional} carried a coefficient of 0.8, accounting for 80% of the result, and neighborhood-specific indicators $Y_{\text{Neighborhood}}$ carried a coefficient of 0.20, accounting for 20% of the result. We derived these proportions from the gentrification literature that identifies the major indicators for gentrification as increasing commute times, rapid job and population growth, and changes in demographics of age and income, all issues accounted for in the regional to neighborhood comparisons. Neighborhood-specific attributes, such as proximity to the central business district and architectural character, also bear much significance. However, according to the gentrification literature, these characteristics carry less importance than the regional to neighborhood comparisons. For this reason, the 80% to 20% ratio applied well to the model, giving the regional to neighborhood comparison indicators the majority of the weight without marginalizing the effects of the neighborhood-specific indicators.

Using the weighted suitability model, the data accurately produces a gentrification index (G) for each neighborhood in the study area with the following equation:

$$G = 0.8Y_{\text{Regional}} + 0.2Y_{\text{Neighborhood}}$$

Where

Y_{Regional} = deterministic neighborhood value analysis of regional to local comparison indicators, and $Y_{\text{neighborhood}}$ = deterministic neighborhood value analysis of neighborhood-specific indicators.

The Raster Calculator in the Spatial Analyst menu of ArcGIS calculated the G values for each neighborhood and added their graphic representation to the base map as a separate layer. The G values were measured on a scale of 0 to 1, with 0 equal to 0% likelihood of gentrification and 1 equal to 100% likelihood of gentrification.

This process outlines a method for empirically measuring and graphically displaying the potential for gentrification. It provides a means to quantify physical and social attributes of an area and relate them mathematically to describe neighborhood change.

CHAPTER 5 FINDINGS AND RESULTS

This thesis focuses on the use of census and other relevant data to reveal long-term patterns of change and use them to monitor gentrification in a neighborhood. The following chapter will report the findings for each indicator separately, looking at overall trends from 1980 to 2000 as well the differences between the rate of change in the 1980s and the rate of change in the 1990s. Although our model does not use the rates of change from 1990 to 2000, the trends they reveal are worth discussing.

Regional to Local Comparisons

In many cases, indicators in the local areas (neighborhoods) were consistent with the general trend in the region. However, in some cases, the local areas and region registered opposite trends. Overall, the findings for these indicators revealed that although these neighborhoods share common characteristics, such as their geographic locations, they are each unique; therefore, lending themselves to a range of possibilities in their likelihood for gentrification.

Professional Job Growth

Between 1980 and 2000, the city of St. Petersburg experienced a 10.09% increase in the number of residents with professional jobs. Further analysis reveals that the majority of that increase occurred between 1990 and 2000, a 7.38% increase.

From 1980 to 2000, all five neighborhoods in the study area register an increase in the number of residents with professional jobs. Two neighborhoods, Roser Park and Crescent Lake, show an increase much higher than the city. With a 19.82% increase in professional jobs, Roser Parks' rate of increase is nearly twice that of the city. Crescent Lake's 16.38% increase is also significantly higher. This shows the strong appeal of these neighborhoods to professionals. Bartlett Park, Old Southeast and Uptown also showed increases of 5.2%, 9.82% and 8.36% respectively, perhaps implying a growing interest, but not yet on the level of the other two neighborhoods.

Change in Population

The census reports that the population of the city of St. Petersburg increased from 238,547 in 1980 to 248,232 in 2000, a 4.02% increase in population. Further examination shows that the majority of this population increase occurred between 1990 and 2000, as the census reports a population of 238,629 in 1990.

The trend of increasing population for the city of St. Petersburg as a whole does not hold true in any of the neighborhoods in the study area. In fact, some neighborhoods experienced a sharp decline in population. The Crescent Lake neighborhood, represented by Census Tract 235, had the smallest change, with a 0.94% decrease in population from 1980 to 2000. In ascending order, Old Southeast (Tract 204) shows a 3.31% decrease, Uptown (Tract 234) shows a 9.6% decrease, Bartlett Park (Tract 205) shows a 18.26% decrease, and Roser Park (Tract 213) shows a 51.0% decrease.

Considering the increase in city population, these neighborhood-level decreases are unexpected. On face value, these decreases in population could represent disinterest and disinvestment. However, this population decrease may be explained by trends relating to other indicators.

Change in Housing Units

Between 1980 and 2000, the number of housing units in the city of St. Petersburg increased 4.3%. However, over both censuses, all five neighborhoods report a decreasing number of housing units. Still, Roser Park shows a strikingly high decrease in housing units, reporting a 78.46% decrease. The second-highest decrease occurred in Uptown, reporting a 24.84% decrease. Bartlett Park ranks third, with an 18.26% decrease, followed by Crescent Lake and Old Southeast, with 16.35% and 10.56% decreases respectively.

These decreases in housing units may be explained by conversion of housing units to office space. For instance, due to its location near a large hospital district and university campus, some housing units in the Roser Park neighborhood may have been purchased by those institutions for future expansion or by businesses wishing to be close to them. Another explanation could be the conversion of large structures back to single-family uses that were formerly rented as multiple units.

Change in College-Educated Population

From 1980 to 2000, the number of persons with Bachelors, Graduate and Professional degrees in the city of St. Petersburg has increased 8.25%, from 14.57% in 1980 to 22.82% in 2000. This increase appears to be steady, with 4.19% occurring between 1990 and 2000.

All five neighborhoods also report an increase in the number of residents with four-year degrees or higher. Three neighborhoods show a rate of increase higher than that of the city. They are Old Southeast, Roser Park and Crescent Lake, with 19.82%, 8.36% and 16.09% increases respectively. These larger increases imply that these are clearly neighborhoods of interest for college-educated persons. Bartlett Park and Uptown report increase of 5.2% and 6.12% respectively. Although these represent a gain in college-educated residents, the smaller values indicate these neighborhoods aren't as popular as the other three.

Change in Age 25 through 34 Population

From 1980 to 2000, St. Petersburg shows a slight increase in the number of residents from the age of 25 through 34 with an overall increase of 0.74% from 13.02% of the population in 1980 to 13.76% of the population in 2000. There was a larger increase from 1980 to 1990, going from 13.02% to 14.96%, then decreasing in 2000 to 13.76%.

The population in this cohort increased during the twenty-year period in two of the neighborhoods and decreased in the other three. Uptown's increase of 0.95% is slightly above the city's rate of increase. Crescent Lake experienced a more significant 3.86% increase. However, Bartlett Park, Old Southeast and Roser Park all experienced decreases – 6.19%, 3.78% and 5.24% respectively. Although the rate of increase appears slow for Uptown and Crescent Lake, both are gaining residents of this age faster than the city, indicating an attractiveness of these neighborhoods to younger adults. The decreases in Bartlett Park, Old Southeast and Roser Park imply an unattractiveness of these neighborhoods to younger adults.

Change in Age 55 through 64 Population

The population aged 55 through 64 has decreased in St. Petersburg from 12.15% in 1980 to 9.17% in 2000, a 2.98% decrease. The majority of this decrease occurred between 1990 and 2000 when the 55 to 64 population decreased 1.69% from 10.86% to 9.17%.

Two neighborhoods registered an increase in this age group, whereas the population in this age group declined in three of the neighborhoods. Bartlett Park experienced an increase of 3.72% from 1980 to 2000, the majority occurring between 1980 and 1990 (2.87%). This slowing increase may imply a developing disinterest in the area from this age group. Old Southeast reports an overall increase of 0.38%. Although the population in this age group decreased between 1980 and 1990 from 9.79% to 8.43% of the total population, it increased again between 1990 and 2000 to 10.17%. This indicates that the Old Southeast may be developing into a neighborhood of interest for this age group. Roser Park, Uptown and Crescent Lake report decreases of 1.17%, 2.05% and 3.91% respectively. In all three cases, the majority of decrease occurred between 1980 and 1990. This slowing decrease may also indicate increasing interest in these three neighborhoods for this age group.

Change in Area Median Income

The area median income has increased dramatically in St. Petersburg, going from $11,798 in 1980 to $34,597 in 2000, a 193% increase, or nearly tripling in twenty years. The majority of that increase took place between 1980 and 1990, when median income experienced a 146.26% increase from $11,798 to $23,577. This significant increase in median income could be explained by an increasing number of two-wage earner households and the greater upward mobility of women during this time period.

All five neighborhoods experienced significant increases in median income. Crescent Lake experienced the largest increase (234%), going from $6,964 in 1980 to $23,225 in 2000. Not far behind with a 200% increase is Old Southeast, rising from $10,386 in 1980 to $31,163 in 2000. Uptown experienced a 169% increase from $8,466 in 1980 to $22,768 in 2000. The smallest increases were in Bartlett Park and Roser Park, reporting 135% and 158% increases respectively. Bartlett Park increased from $8,135 to $19,125, while Roser Park increased from $7,584 to $19,531. Just as with the city, all five neighborhoods experienced their greatest gains between 1980 and 1990.

Although all five neighborhoods have gained significantly, their median incomes still lag behind that of the city of St. Petersburg as a whole. However, with gains of 200% and 234%, incomes in Old Southeast and Crescent Lake are growing at a faster rate than the city's rate of increase, indicating interest in these areas from higher-income households. Moreover, of the five neighborhoods, Roser Park is the only neighborhood in which a higher rate of increase in income occurred from 1990 to 2000 than the city's rate during that same period – an increase of 69.76% for the neighborhood compared to 46.74% for the city, implying that Roser Park has caught the attention of higher-income households. Yet the overall numbers from 1980 to 2000 reveal that there still remains a large presence of low-income households in the neighborhood.

Change in Median Single-family Unit Value

From 1980 to 2000, single-family homes in the city of St. Petersburg increased in value by 126%, going from $35,800 in 1980 to $81,000 in 2000. This increase mostly took place during the 1980s, when values increased by 96.81%, or nearly doubled. Both Bartlett Park and Old Southeast experienced similar rates of increase – 122% and 125% respectively. Values in Bartlett Park grew from $20,600 in 1980 to $45,800 in 2000; whereas values in Old Southeast grew from $37,900 in 1980 to $85,400 in 2000.

The three other neighborhoods saw values rise at a higher rate than the city. Roser Park and Crescent Lake experienced the greatest increase in single-family home values. In Roser Park, values rose an impressive 255%, more than tripling from $19,200 in 1980 to $68,100 in 2000. Likewise, Crescent Lake values grew by 211%, also more than tripling from $28,700 in 1980 to $89,200 in 2000. Although not as high, Uptown values rose 170% from $29,000 in 1980 to $78,200 in 2000. In addition, all three neighborhoods had higher rates of increase between 1990 and 2000 than the 29.19% rate of the city, with Roser Park reporting a 51.33% increase, Crescent Lake reporting a 50.42% increase and Uptown reporting a 48.95% increase. Of these three neighborhoods, values in two – Roser Park and Uptown – still lag behind the regional median value. Still, the rising values generally relate to rising demand, implying specific interest of homebuyers in these three neighborhoods.

Change in Housing Vacancy

Interestingly, from 1980 to 2000 the city reports an overall increase in vacancy of 2.24% from 1980 to 2000. However, the vacancy rate decreased by 3.74% between 1990 and 2000, indicating increased absorption of housing units in the city overall.

Four of the five neighborhoods followed similar patterns. Bartlett Park experienced the highest increase in vacancy, rising from 17.02% in 1980 to 28.77% in 2000. Vacancy in Crescent Lake rose 6.67% over the same time period. In Uptown, the rate grew 3.77%. Roser Park reported the smallest increase with 0.36%. However, all four experienced decreases in their vacancy rates in the 1990s. Crescent Lake reports a 10.04% decrease during that decade. Roser Park had the second-highest decrease of 6.9%. Uptown and Bartlett Park experienced decreases of 2.16% and 0.02% respectively. Old Southeast is the only neighborhood to experience an overall decrease in vacancy from 1980 to 2000. Vacancy decreased by 2.41%, going from 15.97% in 1980 to 13.56% in 2000. Still, all five neighborhoods continue to have higher rates of vacancy than the city as a whole. However, with vacancy rates decreasing at a faster rate than the city between 1990 and 2000, both Roser Park and Crescent Lake appear to be neighborhoods of interest.

Change in Owner-Occupancy

Surprisingly, owner-occupancy decreased over the twenty-year period by 1.17% in the city of St. Petersburg from 57.04% in 1980 to 55.87% in 2000. However, the rate of owner-occupancy increased by 2.8% between 1990 and 2000. Only one other neighborhood followed a similar pattern – Bartlett Park. Here, owner-occupancy decreased by 2.16% between 1980 and 2000, but it increased by 5.04% between 1990 and 2000.

The other four neighborhoods experienced growing owner-occupancy over both time periods. Ownership in Roser Park grew 9.64% from 1980 to 2000, with 95% of that growth taking place in the 1990s. Old Southeast, Uptown and Crescent Lake also experienced an increase in ownership from 1980 to 2000, with increases of 2.54%, 0.68% and 1.23% respectively. However, these neighborhoods saw greater rates of increase in the 1990s than over the twenty-year span of 1980 to 2000. Old Southeast reports an increase of 9.78% during the 1990s. Uptown and Crescent Lake saw increases of 4.3% and 5.15% respectively.

With the exception of Bartlett Park, owner-occupancy increased faster in the neighborhoods than in the city overall from 1980 to 2000. However, ownership increased faster in Bartlett Park than the city overall from 1990 to 2000. Both trends imply a growing number of homeowners, associated with a stabilizing neighborhood. Moreover, these rates indicate the growing appeal of these neighborhoods to homebuyers.

Unit Size

The median number of rooms in owner-occupied units in 2000 was 5.5 rooms for the city. Of the five neighborhoods, Old Southeast and Roser Park had a higher median number of rooms, with 6 and 7.4 rooms respectively. Bartlett Park homes tend to be smaller than that of the city, with a median of 5.3 rooms. The same applies to Uptown, with a median of 5.2 rooms. Crescent Lake reflects the citywide median of 5.5 rooms.

The larger homes of Old Southeast and Roser Park lend themselves to greater attractiveness; whereas, the smaller homes of Bartlett Park and Uptown may not be as attractive. As the homes of Crescent Lake tend mirror the city as a whole, other indicators would have a greater effect on the likelihood of gentrification taking place there.

Change in Commute Times

Over the twenty-year period the average commute times increased in all instances. The city average commute time increased 5.64% from 19.5 minutes in 1980 to 20.6 minutes in 2000. Uptown reports the greatest increase in commute times, rising 37.84% from 14.8 minutes in 1980 to 20.4 minutes in 2000. The second-largest increase happened in Old Southeast, with a 24.57% increase from 17.5 minutes in 1980 to 21.8 minutes in 2000. Crescent Lake, Roser Park and Bartlett Park experienced increases of 6.96%, 7.21% and 1.39% respectively. If gentrification is happening in these areas, then these commute times are still low enough to attract new residents. An alternative explanation may be that a change in commute times is not a significant indicator of gentrification.

Neighborhood-Specific Indicators

Percentage of Housing Constructed before 1950

All neighborhoods have relatively high percentages of housing units built prior to 1950. Two neighborhoods, Uptown and Crescent Lake, have maintained the majority of their older residential units, reporting that 57.47% and 56.04% of their units were built prior to 1950. However, the three of the four neighborhoods believed to be targets of gentrification reported the lowest percentages of old homes. Bartlett Park reports in 2000 that 41.16% of its units were constructed before 1950. The percentages for Old Southeast and Roser Park were 44.08% and 42.17% respectively. It appears that Uptown and Crescent Lake did a better job of preserving historic character over the years than has Bartlett Park, Old Southeast and Roser Park. If these three neighborhoods are gentrifying, this data may counter the hypothesis that gentrifiers are generally attracted to the architecture of older neighborhoods.

Proximity to the Central Business District and Interstate Highways

Roser Park, Uptown and Crescent Lake are directly adjacent to the business district, and are all bordered on at least one side by an interstate highway. In all cases, the bordering interstate highway is the divider between the neighborhood and the central business district. Bartlett Park and Old Southeast are located further away – one mile and 1.5 miles respectively. However, they are both within a five minute drive of the central business district. Their proximity to the central business district and the interstate highways, which provide access to suburban job markets, make these neighborhoods attractive to gentrifiers looking for shorter commutes to the central business district or who don't mind the "reverse" commute to the suburbs in exchange for easy access to the cultural and entertainment amenities of the central business district.

Historic Designations

Old Southeast contains the greatest number of historic designations with a local historic district designation and three individual historic structure designations, two national and one local. Crescent Lake follows with a portion of the area designated as the Round Lake national historic district and one historic structure. Lastly, Roser Park is designated a national historic district. Both Bartlett Park and Uptown have no historic designations.

According to previous studies (Redfern, 2001; Nelson, 1988; Lang, 1982), maintenance of historic character makes an area more attractive to gentrifiers. Historic designations in a neighborhood or the designation of an entire neighborhood as a historic district attest to the neighborhood's commitment to maintain that character. Therefore, two of the four neighborhoods believed to be targets for gentrification – Old Southeast, Roser Park – are likely to succeed; whereas, Bartlett Park and Uptown may not attract as many gentrifiers as they are not designated like the other two.

Major Relationships

Examination of these statistics revealed some relationships between indicators. There were some expected correlations, such as that between population and housing units. However, some relationships didn't follow usual patterns, such as that between housing vacancy, number of units and value. The following paragraphs will discuss relationships found between these indicators.

Overall, the number of housing units in the city increased at the same rate as population increase, indicating that housing production in the city has generally kept pace with population increase. However, although population has decreased in the neighborhoods, the number of housing units has decreased at a much higher rate in all cases except Bartlett Park. Although the city's growing population may be redistributing itself in other areas, there still remains interest in these neighborhoods in 2000, perhaps by larger households than had previously occupied them in 1980. This theory runs counter to how gentrification research identifies a gentrifier -- described as a nontraditional household (young, single persons or unrelated individuals), or a married couple with no children living in the house (younger couple or older yet active, empty-nest couple). The theory of growing household size is further supported by the overall decrease in population of the age cohorts generally associated with these two demographics – ages 25 through 34 and ages 55 through 64. An increasing household size may also indicate that gentrification does not necessarily relate to growth in those demographics, but could possibly relate to growth in families with upwardly mobile householders; thus, adding another dynamic to ideas of how gentrification manifests itself in different cities.

Likewise, as the number of residents with bachelor's degrees or higher increases, the number of residents with professional jobs increases. In most cases, the number of professional workers has increased at a higher rate than the number of college-educated residents. This, perhaps, indicates an increasingly competitive job market that continues to attract new, highly-educated residents. In addition to possibly reflecting an increasing number of two-income households, the increase in area median income in all geographic areas also relates to the growing number of highly-educated professional workers as demonstrated by the statistics gathered for this research. This increase in income and percentage of college-educated residents supports the hypothesis that these neighborhoods are targets for gentrification, as previous studies on the subject indicate that job growth, particularly professional job growth, is the major indicator of the potential for gentrification.

Finally, interesting relationships exist among the statistics relating directly to the housing units. As the number of units decreases, one expects the vacancy rate to also decrease. Conversely, as the number of units decreased, the vacancy rate increased in nearly all instances. Despite an increasing vacancy rate, the value of single-family units continued to rise. This increase in value probably relates to the general increase in owner-occupancy, which also supports previous gentrification research that points to increasing home-ownership as a sign of gentrification. In addition, the two neighborhoods with the largest homes, Old Southeast and Roser Park experienced the highest rates of increase in homeownership. Roser Park, with the largest homes, experienced the highest rate of increase in home value, while Uptown and Crescent Lake, with the largest collection of homes constructed before 1950, experienced the second and third-largest increases in home value. Moreover, these three neighborhoods immediately adjacent to the central business district – Roser Park, Uptown and Crescent Lake – experienced the highest rates of home value increase. This supports gentrification research on the attractiveness of large, older homes close to the central business district to gentrifiers.

Results

Using the model described in the previous chapter the results strongly support the hypothesis in one neighborhood. In other neighborhoods, the results counter the hypothesis. The following paragraphs will describe the application of the statistics developed from the census data, the relationships discovered among the statistics related to each indicator in the model, and the resulting gentrification index.

Weights

The weights for each indicator were calculated using the pairwise comparison described in the methodology chapter. Each indicator was compared to the other indicators individually based in part on their ranking of importance as expressed in the literature on gentrification and in part on their specific relevance to gentrification in St. Petersburg. For instance, the change in commute time is a major indicator of gentrification according to the gentrification literature, as neighborhoods experiencing gentrification should register decreasing commute times. However, four of the five neighborhoods report commute times increasing at a higher rate than the region (the city of St. Petersburg). Therefore, in fitting with the hypothesis, change in commute times carries a smaller weight with neighborhoods in St. Petersburg. Tables 5-1 and 5-2 display the weights calculated for each indicator:

Values

For use in the equation, the model reclassified the statistics for each indicator using the binary system values of 0 and 1. The regional (city) values were used as the thresholds to determine how indicator value was reclassified. Since gentrification literature gives neither universal thresholds nor any direction on how to stratify the reclassification of values based on preset thresholds, reclassification based on the city values using the binary system was the most appropriate and effective means of evaluating each indicator. The reclassification for each indicator is as follows:

% Change in Population 1 = Tract > 4.02% 0 = Tract < 4.02%	% Change in Housing Units 1 = Tract < 4.3% 0 = Tract > 4.3%
% Change in Professional Employment 1 = Tract > 10.09% 0 = Tract < 10.09%	% Change in College-Educated Pop. 1 = Tract > 8.25% 2 = Tract < 8/25%
% Change in Age 25-34 Population 1 = Tract > 0.74% 0 = Tract < 0.74%	% Change in Age 55-64 Population 1 = Tract > -2.98% 0 = Tract < -2.98%
% Change in AMI 1 = Tract > 193% 0 = Tract < 193%	% Change in Single-Family Home Value 1 = Tract > 126% 0 = Tract < 126%
% Change in Commute Times 1 = Tract < 5.64% 0 = Tract > 5.64%	% Change in Housing Vacancy 1 = Tract < 2.24% 0 = Tract > 2.24%
% Change in Owner-Occupancy 1 = Tract > -1.17% 0 = Tract < -1.17%	Unit Size 1 = Tract > 5.5 Rooms 0 = Tract < 5.5 Rooms
% Housing Pre-1950 1 = Tract > 0% 0 = Tract = 0%	Proximity to Central Business District 1 = Tract = 0 miles (directly adjacent) 0 = Tract > 0 miles
Proximity to Transportation Corridor 1 = Tract = 0 miles (directly adjacent) 0 = Tract > 0 miles	Historic Designations 1 = Historic designations present 0 = No historic designations present

This reclassification was done using the “reclass” function in the Spatial Analyst menu of ArcGIS. The resulting equation for the gentrification index (G) was

$$G = 0.8 * [(0.0864 * \Delta \text{ in population}) + (0.1684 * \Delta \text{ in units}) + (0.1875 * \Delta \text{ in professional jobs}) + 0.0712 * \Delta \text{ in college-educated}) + (0.0362 * \Delta \text{ in age 25-34}) + (0.0439 * \Delta \text{ in age 55-64}) + (0.0630 * \Delta \text{ in AMI}) + (0.1062 * \Delta \text{ in single-family value}) + (0.0379 * \Delta \text{ in commute time}) + (0.1141 * \Delta \text{ in housing vacancy}) + (0.0419 * \Delta \text{ in owner-occupancy}) + (0.0380 * \Delta \text{ unit size})] + 0.2 * [(0.43175 * \text{housing pre-1950}) + (0.26025 * \text{proximity to CBD}) + (0.2076 * \text{proximity to transportation corridors}) + (0.3478 * \text{historic designations})]$$

This equation used the reclassified values for each indicator to calculate the gentrification index G. We used the trends from 1980 to 2000 to establish the values for each indicator in the gentrification index calculation. This equation was inputted into the Raster Calculator in the Spatial Analyst menu of ArcGIS, which inputted the reclassified values into the equation and yielded gentrification indices with the following values:

Bartlett Park = 0.1559
 Old Southeast = 0.4577
 Roser Park = 0.7358
 Uptown = 0.4072
 Crescent Lake = 0.6277

Multiplying those values by 100 more clearly communicates the relative likelihood of gentrification:

Bartlett Park = 15.59%
 Old Southeast = 45.77%
 Roser Park = 73.58%
 Uptown = 40.72%
 Crescent Lake = 62.77%

Both Roser Park and Crescent Lake show the greatest likelihood for gentrification with gentrification indexes (probabilities) of 73.58% and 62.77% respectively. Old Southeast and Uptown have lower likelihoods of gentrification, with indexes of 45.77% and 40.72%. Bartlett Park's index comes in substantially lower than Uptown at 15.59%. These indexes strongly support the hypothesis with Roser Park and Crescent Lake, moderately support the hypothesis with Old Southeast, and disprove the hypothesis for Bartlett Park. With a likelihood of 40.72%, Uptown proves not to be representative of the city of St. Petersburg and should be re-evaluated in its role as the control neighborhood.

Clearly, Roser Park and Crescent Lake are experiencing the most rapid change, and likely would gentrify before the other neighborhoods in the study area. Perhaps, the process has already begun in these two neighborhoods. What differentiates these two neighborhoods from the others that explain this higher likelihood? Geographically speaking, Roser Park, Crescent and Uptown are adjacent to the central business district. However, Roser Park and Crescent Lake are closest to the core of the central business district where most of the activity takes place. Both neighborhoods showed great increases in the percentage of residents in professional employment, the only two with higher rates of increase than the city. Uptown and Crescent Lake both have high percentages of older housing, Uptown with the highest of all neighborhoods in the study area. However Crescent Lake homes are larger, equal to the city average. Similarly, Old Southeast has a slightly larger collection of older homes; however, single-family homes are significantly larger in Roser Park than in Old Southeast. Neither Bartlett Park nor Old Southeast are directly adjacent to the central business district. However, Bartlett Park has shown the smallest increase in professional employment and college-educated residents; its average home size is smaller than the city average, and it has the smallest collection of older homes of all the neighborhoods in the study area. While these explanations do not address every indicator, they begin to explain why Roser Park and Crescent Lake exhibit high potential for gentrification and Bartlett Park trails so far behind. Perhaps, the process has already begun in those neighborhoods, with Old Southeast and Uptown poised to follow them in a second wave of gentrification and Bartlett Park in the distant future – if ever at all.

CHAPTER 6 CONCLUSION

In our study, we identified several indicators of gentrification according to previous research on the subject and used them to develop a model that monitors community change and assesses the likelihood of gentrification with a deterministic statistical analysis method and a weighted suitability analysis that uses the spatial analyst capabilities of geographic information systems. Our hypothesis defines four neighborhoods as targets of gentrification (Bartlett Park, Old Southeast, Roser Park and Crescent Lake) and one control neighborhood (Uptown). The results are mixed. Our model proves our hypothesis correct for Roser Park, Crescent Lake, and arguably Old Southeast. Our hypothesis is proved wrong for Bartlett Park, found not to be a target of gentrification (yet) and Uptown, found to be more of a target than expected. However, our study demonstrates the capabilities of statistical analysis and geographic information systems to address housing issues in a proactive manner by anticipating the likelihood of gentrification.

Universal Applicability

Since gentrification manifests itself in accordance with the unique dynamics of a local housing market, it is impossible to develop an equation with coefficients that can be used for analyzing any neighborhood in any city. However, the indicators of gentrification are generally the same everywhere. Therefore, in order to apply our model to other cities, the coefficient values associated with each indicator should be adjusted to reflect how they interact in that specific market.

Policy Implications

Any model for monitoring a planning issue should produce meaningful results for use in the development of policies and programs. Our deterministic model of gentrification allows planners to accurately identify those neighborhoods more likely to gentrify and use that information as a basis for changes to or the creation of new policies, programs and planning initiatives.

Planning, overall, has developed into a reactionary practice. More proactive planning needs to take place. However, in order for planners to work proactively, they must be equipped with the tools necessary to provide solid analysis on which to base their recommendations. Our model provides an excellent example of how common planning tools and resources can be used for analysis of a complex planning issue – gentrification. The results of the model can be used to guide the implementation of specific programs, such as tax credit and grant programs for rehabilitation or new construction to encourage a mix of incomes and discourage the displacement of low-income residents that often occurs with gentrification. Implementing such programs before gentrification begins in earnest will increase the effectiveness of the programs by intervening before any negative effects can occur.

For St. Petersburg specifically, efforts should focus affordable construction and rehabilitation dollars in neighborhoods such as Roser Park and Crescent Lake immediately, as developers and speculators will surely start to purchase properties, if they have not already. The same should be done in Old Southeast and Uptown as they both will likely follow the same path of gentrification as Roser Park and Crescent Lake. As for Bartlett Park, perhaps the city may want to encourage the development of more middle-income housing to strengthen the neighborhood. However, realizing Bartlett Park shares many things in common with gentrifying areas, policies should be written to prevent the neighborhood from falling victim to its own success. For instance, amendments to the housing and future land use elements of the city of St. Petersburg's Comprehensive Plan could be written to specifically address the possibility of gentrification in Bartlett Park and similar neighborhoods. In addition to policy changes, programs such as a community land trust, municipal purchase of residential properties or tax increment financing for affordable housing could be implemented to insure that low and moderate-income households will continue to have housing opportunities in the neighborhood.

Recommendations for Future Research

Overall, our model appears to be effective in calculating a gentrification index and establishing a model for monitoring community change based on trends over long time periods. However, specific aspects of the model could be adjusted to increase its effectiveness, calling for additional research:

Studying the change in the same indicators over a shorter period of time. In several cases, the statistics revealed different trends between 1980 and 2000, and 1990 and 2000. Although comparing changes in values and statistics associated with the indicators over a longer period of time gives a broader base of knowledge, examining the short term trends may help to balance the perspective in assessing the likelihood of gentrification. Since real estate markets can be very volatile, it may prove beneficial to run this deterministic gentrification model based on ten year intervals. For instance, in addition to obtaining the index with a base year of 1980, the gentrification index could be calculated using 1990 as the base year instead. Based on the data collected, the results would probably be somewhat different.

Projecting beyond the census. Reliance on census data lends itself to inaccuracy as years pass. For example, the 2000 census could describe 2001 and 2002 demographics fairly accurately. However, the 2000 census would not reflect 2005 demographics accurately. The overall effectiveness of the model depends upon the accuracy of the statistics inputted. Therefore, one may consider calculating projections of the census data, such as those done by the Bureau of Economic and Business Research at the University of Florida, for each indicator to more accurately relate the current situation to that of the base year.

Use of other indicators in addition to those measured by the census. Previous research on gentrification identifies several other potential indicators that are not used in this model. However, some data was collected on these indicators. One major indicator of gentrification is increased sales activity. According to the Pinellas County Property Appraiser, Bartlett Park had 33 sales in 2000 as opposed to 10 in 1980. Crescent Lake had 125 sales in 2000 as opposed to only 13 in 1980. Comparison of these rates of increase to the rate of change in the city's sales activity would strengthen the model more. Other indicators include the change in the number of residential (new construction or major renovation) permits issued as well as the number and type of capital improvement projects planned or that have occurred in the neighborhood over time. In addition, surveying local residents may identify indicators not mentioned in the literature. Incorporation of these other indicators not measured by the census as well as those identified by residents (and not mentioned in the literature) would further support changes related to other indicators and greatly enhance the effectiveness of the model.

Develop weights and thresholds through survey. Community involvement in determining the weights and acceptable thresholds could greatly strengthen the validity of the model, as the value and thresholds related to community indicators are usually decided upon by members of the community. The weights for each indicator were developed based on the researcher's interpretation of information presented in the literature search and the data gathered on each indicator, lending itself to a certain amount of subjectivity some may consider problematic. More accurate weights could be developed by surveying other housing and planning experts as well as area residents through public meetings or written surveys. The range of weights relating to each indicator reported in the surveys could, perhaps, be averaged to determine the actual weight used in the model; therefore, creating a better equation with more accurate results.

Run model again in the future to see if results change. As implied by the indexes for each neighborhood in our study, some neighborhoods are further into the process of gentrification than others. As neighborhoods, cities and regions are dynamic entities, the gentrification index as calculated by the model may be different in the future for each neighborhood. One possible extension of this research would be to re-evaluate these neighborhoods at the time of the 2010 census to monitor how they have changed since 2000.

Determine a "tipping point" index and assigning appropriate policies and programs to specific indexes. One of the major goals of our study is to create a monitoring tool for use in policy decision-making. Therefore, determining the index value that describes a neighborhood in the early or moderate states of gentrification as opposed to when the process of gentrification is fully underway and therefore quite difficult to address would be excellent continuations of our study. Then proper policy and programs to could be related to specific index ranges through testing this model on neighborhoods in other cities to show that neighborhoods with the same index generally display similar attributes. Similarly, neighborhoods could be re-evaluated over time to discover how long it takes neighborhoods to cycle through the gentrification process.

Our study successfully accomplishes its goal of developing a model for measuring gentrification and monitoring community change with results that can have meaningful effects on policy and program decisions. It is also a good example of how qualitative information, such as the affinity for architectural style or the desire to be close to the amenities of the central business district, can be combined with quantitative data, such as the percentage of housing built before 1950 and the measured distance of a neighborhood from the central business district, to produce usable information on community change. Although several revisions could possibly improve the model, it provides an excellent foundation for future research into the development of more effective models relating to monitoring gentrification as well as a wide range of other related planning issues.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Ashon Jahi Nesbitt originates from St. Petersburg, FL – the area of focus for the study in this paper. He spent his entire childhood there before going on to attend Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University, where he majored in Architecture and participated in the world-renowned “Marching 100” as well as gained other campus activities.

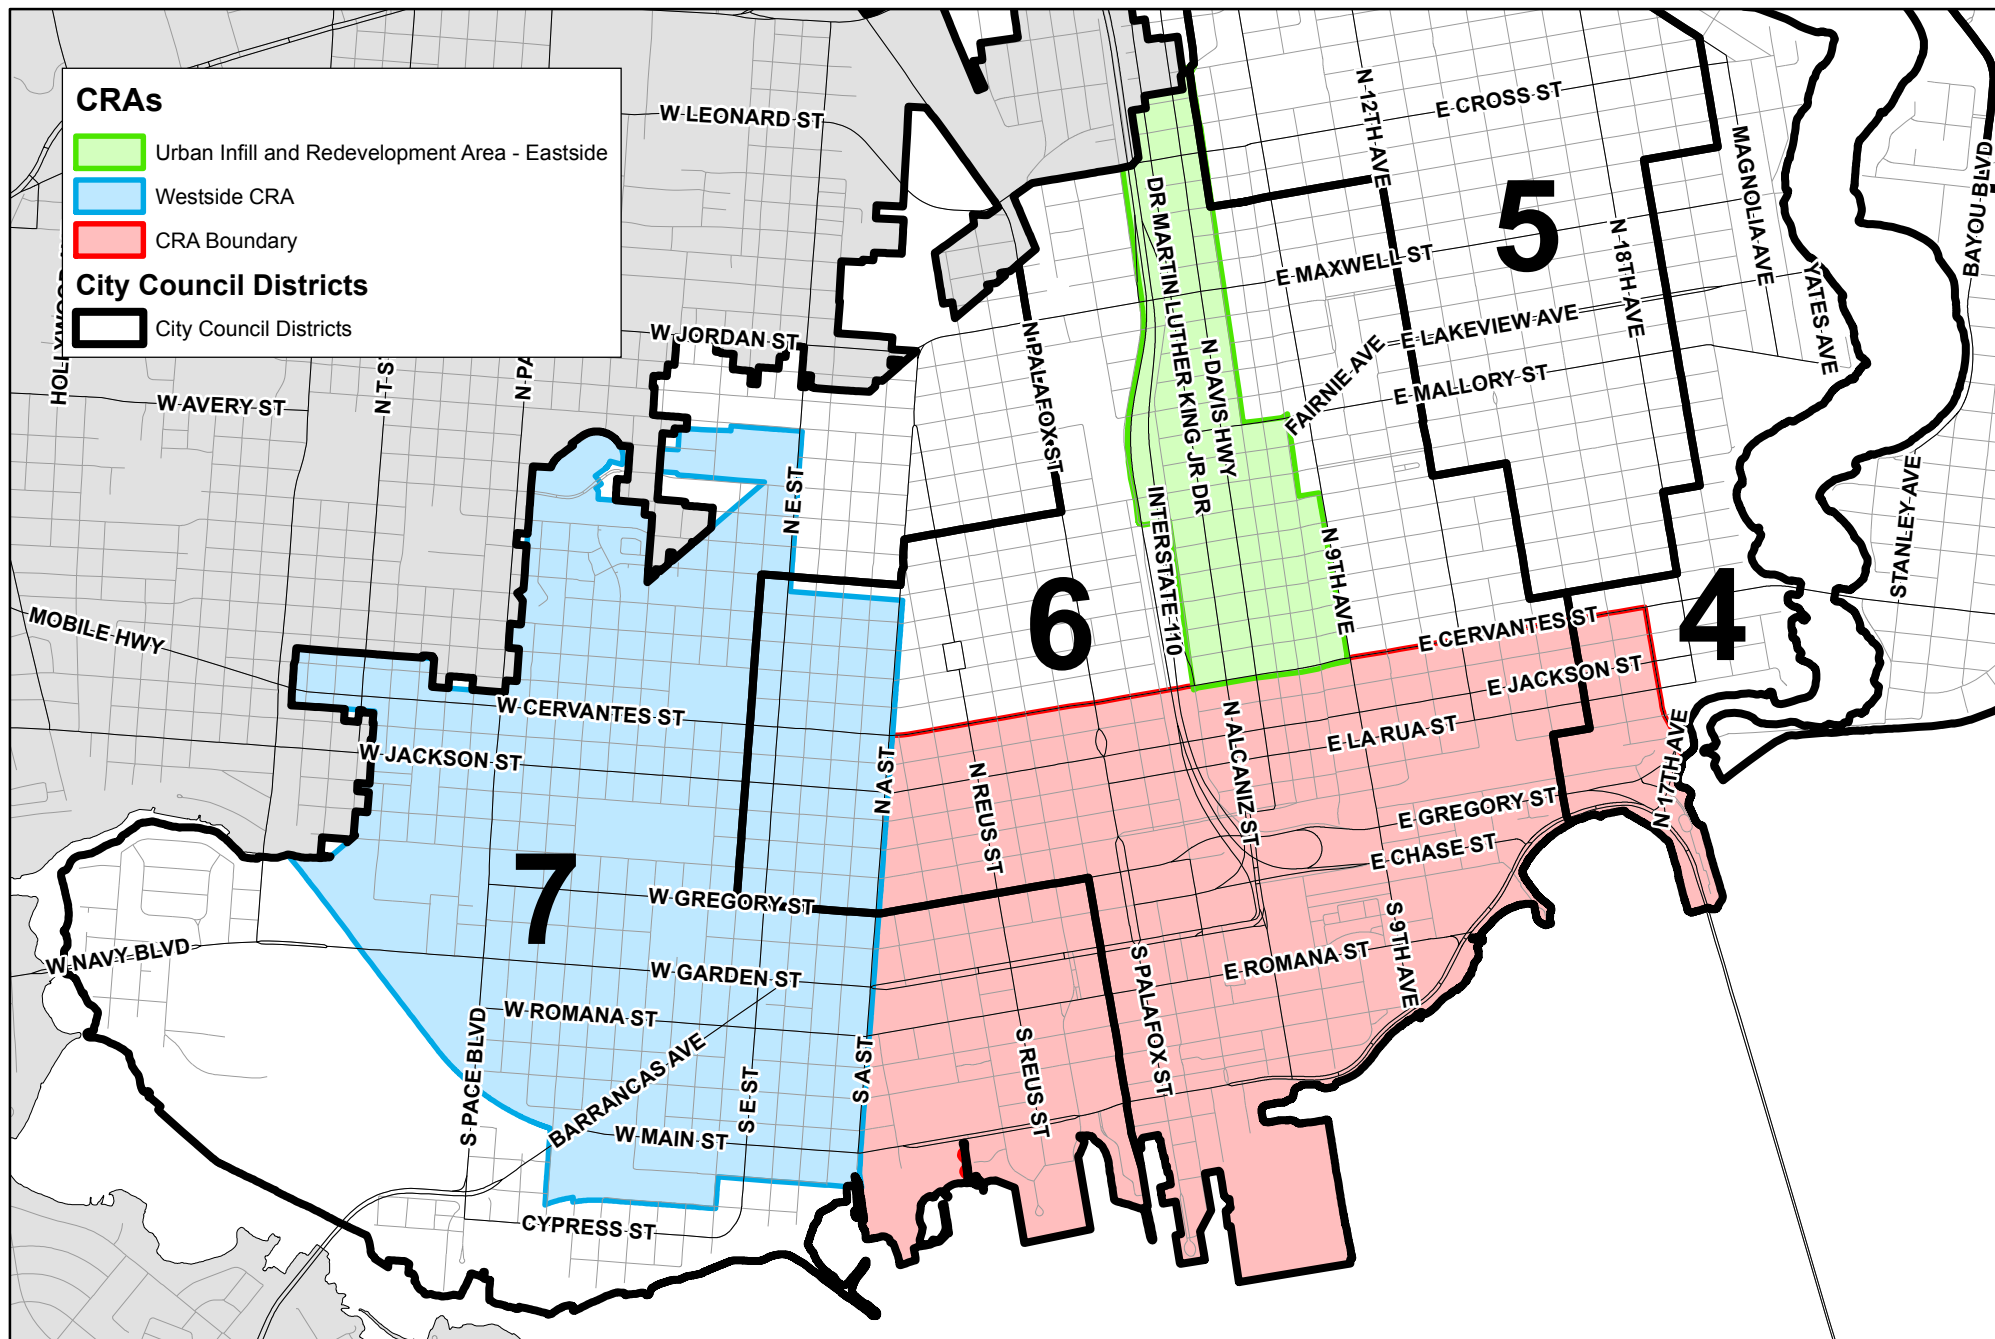

Ashon graduated from Florida A&M University in the spring of 2002 with a Bachelor of Science in Architectural Studies. Although Ashon sought to pursue a professional degree in architecture, he found his home in Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Florida after a year of unsuccessful attempts to gaining employment in the field of architecture.

Ashon chose to concentrate on Housing and Economic Development. Ashon first became interested in this area due to exposure to his mom’s professional career, who worked many years in real estate and as director of a leading local nonprofit housing agency in the city of St. Petersburg. As a student in the Urban and Regional Planning program at the University of Florida, Ashon has cultivated that interest through coursework, employment as a Graduate Research Assistant with the Center for Building Better Communities, and attendance at such conferences as the Florida Housing Coalition Annual Conference.

In addition to his academic pursuits, Ashon actively participated in the Student Planning Association, serving as the President for the 2004-2005 school year. He also served on the Florida Chapter of the American Planning Association's (APA) Student Council for that year, Student Representative on the San Felasco APA Executive Committee and holds memberships with the American Planning Association and Florida Housing Coalition. Beyond the department, Ashon participated in the Black Graduate Student Organization, serving as Vice-President for the 2004-2005 school year, as well as church and other activities throughout the community.

Ashon hopes his educational and professional experiences will land him a position with the Department of Housing and Urban Planning, where he hopes to hold the top position one day. Ashon ultimately plans to obtain a Ph.D. in Public Policy, become a developer, focusing on urban infill, affordable housing developments and to teach at the university level upon retirement.
