PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Fred Springer possesses comprehensive, multi-disciplinary, public contracts experience. As a private attorney, he has a track record of success at the trial and appellate levels in cases involving contract award and performance issues. Through government service, he understands public sector needs and dynamics. Since joining the firm in 2007, Mr. Springer has represented state and local governments and select private sector clients in complex transactions at all stages (planning, financing, procuring, delivering, litigating). He focuses on all aspects of complex procurements, including administrative challenges, circuit court litigation, and appeals. Between 2001 and 2006, Mr. Springer served with the Florida Department of Management Services. In the general counsel's office, he exercised legal oversight of the agency's contracting divisions and created new methods of contract solicitation and management. He subsequently became Director of State Purchasing, which possesses ultimate authority and accountability for policies and procedures governing executive agency purchasing. During 2006, he served as interim Deputy Secretary of Operations Support and as interim Executive Director of the Office of Efficient Government, which functioned as a center of excellence for complex outsourcing initiatives. During his tenure with the Department, Mr. Springer worked with leadership across branches of government and across the various knowledge areas necessary to deliver government solutions — budget, legal, procurement, technology, project management, and substantive program areas. Between 1993 and 2001, Mr. Springer conducted a full range of legal tasks with a private law firm in Florida. His practice focused on public contracts and construction litigation, and included counseling clients, drafting documents and contracts, and prosecuting and defending cases in state and federal trial and appellate courts and specialized tribunals. Between 1991 and 1993, Mr. Springer served as a law clerk to United States District Court Judge Garrett E. Brown, Jr., in Trenton, New Jersey. He graduated magna cum laude in 1991 from the Villanova University School of Law, where he was elected to the Order of the Coif.
